Insult and Temptation

—BY ARTHUR BRISBANE

THE Federal Reserve reports cheerful business conditions. Production of steel ingots increased 25 per cent in January; general manufactured products increased 6 per cent. This country is in good shape; richest, most prosperous, most fortunate on earth. If the government will put some of its surplus to work on the Mississippi and the Boulder Dam development, all will be serene.

Distributing water and fertilizer makes farms productive; distributing cash makes nations prosperous.

REV. RODOLPH PETTER, devoted missionary on the northern Cheyenne reservation in Montana, is translating the Bible from Hebrew and Greek into the language of the Cheyenne Indians. Translating the New Testament must be difficult. Fighting Cheyennes did not talk the language of Christianity.

THE reverend translator can sympathize with old Maimonides, who translated the Greek philosophers into Hebrew. He had to invent Hebrew words to express abstract Greek ideas that did not exist in the Hebrew language. Because he did that, the great synagogue in Spain excommunicated him.

That did not worry the justly revered "rabban" He had a good job as physical instructor to the ruler of Egypt, and lived safely with that wise and tolerant Mohammedan.

TONIGHT in California, with 40,000 people, that might be better employed, looking on, the powerful Basque, Uscudun, from the Pyrenees, will fight the huge negro prize fighter Godfrey. The Basque weighs 195 pounds, the negro 235 pounds.

TO this Uscudun, member of a strange race, of origin unknown, all men look alike. Our high-spirited white American fighters, whose ring time is worth $500 a second, is more cautious.

It would take a steel cable to drag one of those priceless gentlemen into the ring with a negro even smaller than Godfrey, unless it were certain that he had been paid to "lie down," that he couldn't fight, or that disease had rendered him powerless.

IT may be repeated that a small-sized gorilla could take Uscudun, Godfrey, Dempsey and Tunney at their best; all four together, and pick them to pieces at leisure.

POPE PIUS, in a ceremony honoring the memory of the venerable Elisabetta Mora, refers to the immortality in dress of some modern women as "insults to the eyes of God and cause for temptation or disgust in the eyes of the world."

That is no exaggeration. It took women a million years to learn to dress modestly. They could dress with their little hoop skirts, bustles, etc. Now they are rapidly going the other way. A strange, daring sex.

THE late Albert Brisbane, more than 80 years ago, suggested that large apartment houses with central heating plants and water automatically distributed should be built as an improvement on the "isolated household."

Some, old-fashioned, that knew little, did not mind seeing their wives carry water from the pump, said, "Americanism will never live herded together."

NOW Dr. Albert E. Douglas of the University of Arizona, exploring the Pueblo Bonito in New Mexico, finds an early American house about 1,000 years old, that housed 2,000 early Americans.

Dr. Douglas can tell by rings in trees that have grown up since its abandonment how old the apartment house is.

MRS. EVA DUGAN, aged 50, convicted of killing a man in Arizona, must be sentenced to hang.

Arizona has never had a woman. Will that state officially kill its first woman in 1928? A woman of 50 can be disposed of with safety to the public without submitting the state to the degradation of choking an old woman to death. It should be difficult to find, in Arizona, any man willing to undertake that job.

MISS FANNIE MAY DAVIS, one of the most interesting religious workers that make California better and brighter, died, leaving to her relatives "the priceless memory of companionship with me," and leaving $15,000,000 to a gentleman friend, Isaac Isaacson. Her will says that "giving the money to Mr. Isaacson is not an act of human mind, but a direct order from Providence." A wise judge will investigate that statement.

EPISCOPALIAN MOURN BISHOP TALBOT'S DEATH

Tuckahoe, N. Y., Feb. 28.—Episcopalians throughout the country today mourned the death of Bishop Gilbert Talbot, the oldest bishop in the Episcopal Church. He died at the age of 70 last night at the Tuckahoe home of his daughter, Mrs. Franklin T. Talbot.

Bishop Talbot, who retired from active duty last Oct. 1, because of illness, formerly was presiding bishop of the Episcopal Church. He suffered a stroke in Boston recently and had been failing in health since.

CITY BUILDING-SEWER INSPECTION POST CREATED

NEW TRAFFIC LIGHTS AUTHORIZED

SLIDING SCALE OF FEES WILL FINANCE JOB

Ordinance Setting Amounts for Building Permits Also Passed by City

UNDER CIVIL SERVICE

Action Will Become Effective in 30 Days; Result of Much Discussion

After more than four years of discussion and debate between city officials and real estate operators and home builders, Marion City Council last night by unanimous vote created a municipal department of building inspection and provided for the employment of a joint building and sewer inspector.

The new department will come under the direction of Safety Director William B. Strayer, and will be financed from the general fund. The department is to become effective in 30 days.

The inspector is to be employed under the civil service act.

While this new division will be financed from the general fund its maintenance will be provided by fees charged for building permits and charges made for inspection, according to City Solicitor George T. Geran.

New Fee Ordinance

In connection with the passage of the ordinance establishing this department City Council last night passed another ordinance providing for a sliding scale increase in building permit fees. This, likewise, will become effective in 30 days.

Under the provisions of this ordinance a fee of 50 cents is to be charged for all permits taken out for the construction of buildings or remodeling operations involving sums up to $200. From $200 to $1,000 the charge will be $1. All permits for construction work to cost more than $1,000 will cost the applicant 50 cents for each additional $1,000.

To Survey Sewer Taps

The chief duty of the inspector at first will be to make a survey of all sewer taps.

CONTRACT FOR BOARD ORDERED BY COUNCIL

Steps Taken by City To Prevent Future Controversy with County

Steps to prevent any future controversies of the kind of city prisoners at the Marion County Jail, was taken by City Council last night, when a resolution authorizing Safety Director W. B. Strayer to enter into a contract with the County Commissioners, for the care of prisoners, was passed.

The proposed contract with commissioners, follows a controversy which has arisen between the city and county over a board bill of $3,300 which the county claims is due from the city for the care of prisoners. The city maintains that the county is indebted to it for a $1,200 hospital bill for the care of John Noble, who was shot by former Sheriff Frank Washburn several years ago.

It is expected that a meeting of representatives of the city and county will be held in the near future when the differences will be ironed out.

A contract has never existed between the city and county for the care of city prisoners and it was stated by City Solicitor George T. Geran last night that the county could not be required to accept the prisoners unless a contract was entered into.

KILLED BY GUNMAN

Cleveland, Feb. 28.—Samuel Weiss, 33, Cleveland, was shot and killed here early today by two unidentified gunmen. Police Sgt. John McGraw, investigating, expressed the opinion that the killing was the result of a bootleg feud. Two suspects were being held.

TO WED PRINCESS?

Dutch society is looking forward to April, when Princess Juliana, daughter of Queen Wilhelmina of Holland, will come of age by arriving at her eighteenth birthday. It is whispered that Lord Tremanton (above), son of Princess Alice and Lord Athlone, is favored by the royal house as a probable match for the young princess—first, because he is popular, and second, because that would mean an alliance with Great Britain.

SEARCH ON FOR BUCYRUS WIFE

Sheriff's Mate Disappears with Infant Son; Had Been in Ill Health

Bucyrus, Feb. 28.—A statewide search for Mrs. Harry Ulmer, 30, wife of the Crawford County sheriff, was under way today, following her mysterious disappearance, with her two-year-old son, Harvey, Jr., last Saturday night.

Sheriff Ulmer, who is reported near a nervous collapse, said his wife had been in ill health. He fears that she has taken her life, and perhaps that of the child as well.

Two older children told authorities that their mother put them to bed about 11:30 o'clock Saturday night. When Sheriff Ulmer returned home, about an hour later, she was not present, and no trace of her has since been reported.

THOMPSON AND G. O. P. LEADERS AT MEETING

Plans for Willis Campaign Will Be Made at Columbus This Afternoon

Columbus, Feb. 28.—Plans for the preliminary campaign to be waged on behalf of U. S. Senator Frank B. Willis for the Republican presidential nomination were scheduled to be discussed at a conference at Willis' state headquarters here this afternoon between Col. Carmi A. Thompson, campaign manager for Willis, and about 20 Ohio republican leaders from various sections of the state.

Special attention will be given, it was stated, to activities looking to the election, at the statewide presidential primaries on April 24, of Willis candidates for delegates and alternates to the Republican national convention.

Announcement was made at the offices of Secretary of State Clarence J. Brown that the names of Hoover and Willis candidates for delegates and alternates will be arranged alternately in the same column on the G. O. P. presidential primary ballots. The name of each candidate will be accompanied by his, or her, first and second choices for the presidential nomination, it was said.

Although officials of the Ohio Anti-Slavery League were of the opinion that the league will take no official action, "for the present, at least," relative to the Hoover and Willis presidential candidacies, publicity was given here today to the declaration by Willis supporters that "the drys are uniting in their support of Willis."

DEATHS END FRED

Trenton, N. J., Feb. 28.—John Greco of this city was held for questioning today in connection with the murder of Patricia Greco, 24, in front of Carmi's apartment house here last night. One of the 10 men who called to see Greco shot him twice in the chest. Police said Greco and Carmi were involved in a feud.

CONGRESS WILL APPROVE BILL BY THURSDAY

Long Fight for Adequate American Air Force Is Won

SENATE IS GENEROUS

Change in Attitude Is Seen as Victory for Col. "Billy" Mitchell

Washington, Feb. 28.—The long fight for an adequate American air force appeared won today with Congress appropriating $20,800,000 for army aviation in the coming fiscal year.

This item featured the War Department appropriation bill, totaling $400,000,000, which went to conference today to iron out differences between the House and Senate. Both branches, however, were agreed upon the necessity for developing a great air force to protect the United States from its potential enemies in the future.

The appropriation of millions of dollars for new airplanes and for the training of army aviators was in sharp contrast to the meager fund given this branch of the national defense in previous years.

Victory for Mitchell

The change represented a victory for Col. "Billy" Mitchell, former "stormy petrel" of the Army Air Service, who dared a court-martial two years ago to arouse the American people to the need for a greater air service.

The House treated army aviation with extreme liberality but the Senate went a little further. In addition to approving a $24,000,000 House appropriation, the Senate set aside two funds totaling $2,178,000, already appropriated, to be used by army aviation. Both branches also authorized the chief of the air corps to enter into contracts for $5,000,000 worth of new airplanes for delivery in 1930. This made a grand total of nearly $32,000,000 to spend for aviation.

Bill Due By Thursday

The new liberality can best be illustrated by the fact that a few years ago the appropriation for new airplanes was only $450,000. In the new bill, the House appropriated $11,287,445 to pay for new aircraft, while the Senate approved this and set aside another $1,100,000 for new bombardment planes.

Both House and Senate likewise agreed upon a $2,200,000 fund for "experimental and research work with air planes or lighter-than-air craft and their equipment."

The bill probably will be enacted finally by Wednesday or Thursday and sent to the White House for the president's signature.

END OF SHED FALLS ON PASSENGER CARS

No One Killed When Building Caves in at Cincinnati Union Depot

Cincinnati, Feb. 28.—Three passenger trains were caught under a mass of timber and steel when the west end of the Union Depot train shed collapsed here today. There were no fatalities or serious injuries, however.

The engine and two express cars of an L. and N. train, which was pulling out of the depot, were submerged under the heavy mass. Engineer R. A. Yelton and Fireman E. A. Sexton crawled free just before the sides of the engine and two cars collapsed under the pressure.

Passenger cars on the L. and N. train were not damaged.

Two passenger coaches on a New York Central train which was backing into the shed after unloading its passengers were crushed under the debris, but both were empty.

CITY NOT READY TO START SOFT WATER SERVICE

Council Tells Company To Make Change on Date Stipulated in Franchise

Assigning no reason for its action, City Council last night upon the recommendation of the franchise committee, refused the request made by the Marion Water Co. to start the soft water service ahead of the date stipulated in its franchise.

Following out this order the water company will not turn softened water into the city mains until July 1, although it now is ready to begin the service.

According to George Whysall, manager of the water company, the softening plant has been ready for several weeks and distributed through the city mains for a short test period.

No Complaints

Thus far no complaints against the softened water have been turned in at the water office.

In turning down the company's request to start the service earlier than had been planned it was stated that the franchise committee "did not approve" of the change before the dates fixed in the franchise agreement.

No comment was made by Mr. Whysall, who was present at the meeting. He later stated that if the company had known of the attitude of the committee, it would not have made a special effort to complete the plant as soon as possible, thinking that when completed we would be granted permission to turn the soft water in.

He also said the company would now leave the plant stand idle and lay off the men employed to have charge.

SEARCH FOR ARMEN SPREADS OVER HILLS

Three Fliers Disappear Completely on Simple, Two-Hour Flight

Washington, Feb. 28.—Close scrutiny of the waters of Chesapeake Bay having yielded no clue, the aerial search for three missing naval aviators spread out far and wide today over the wooded hills of Maryland and Virginia.

Lead and seaplanes joined in the search at dawn today for the three officers and their companion plane who have been missing for nearly 36 hours. They disappeared completely while on a simple two-hour flight from Hampton Roads to Annapolis.

The missing officers are: Commander T. G. Ellison, one of the most expert pilots in the Navy. Lieutenant Commander Hugo Schmidt of Brooklyn, and Lieutenant Roger Rasmussen of Springfield, Mass. Ellison, the first man to qualify as a naval air pilot, and who trained under the Wright Brothers and Glenn Curtiss, was a native of Richmond.

They left Hampton Roads at 2 o'clock yesterday morning in an amphibian plane. They should have reached Annapolis about 4 a. m. But when noon came and they had not arrived, some alarm was felt and scouting planes were sent out to comb the waters of the Chesapeake for traces of them. It was believed they might have experienced motor trouble and landed in the water. But the searching planes dropped all afternoon and into the night without getting a "hook" of them.

SPRING HERE?

Flock of Wild Geese Sighted Flying North Over City

IF an old, old belief can be credited, spring has arrived.

Twenty birds, seen today at E. E. Foster, 275 Dixie, heard a singing in the sky. He looked up and saw a flock of wild geese circling their way northward.

"That," says Foster, "was the first sign of spring I have seen since the war."

Ohio Parent-Teacher Head To Address Meeting Here

Mrs. C. E. Kendel, Cleveland, Will Be One of Principal Speakers

Mrs. C. E. Kendel, Cleveland, president of the State Parent-Teacher Association, will be one of the principal speakers at the district convention of the association to be held in this city on March 8. The convention will be held at the Central Junior High School and Mrs. Kendel, who will take as the subject of her address "Parent-Teacher Association, Past and Present," will give her address at 1:45 o'clock.

Other prominent speakers at the gathering, which is expected to be attended by between 400 and 500 delegates will be Dr. Gary Myers, of the Cleveland College of Education, and a widely known child psychologist, who will talk on "Problems of the Elementary and Adolescent Ages." Dr. Clayton C. Kohl, head of the social science department of Bowling Green State Normal College, will take as the subject of his address "The Boundaries of Public School Education," and F. L. Brownell of Columbus, director of physical education in the State Department of Education, will speak on "Plans for Physical Education in Our Schools."

Los Angeles Leaves Panama Canal Zone After 12-Hour Stay; Cuba is Destination

Drigible Flies Westward Over Canal, and Circles Above Panama Before Heading for Next Goal; Long Trip from New Jersey Takes 39½ Hours

Colon, Panama Canal Zone, Feb. 28.—After a stay of 12 hours in the Panama Canal Zone, the United States Navy dirigible Los Angeles left French Field at 10:15 a. m. o'clock for Cuba. A big crowd which had been gathered at the flying field since shortly after dawn cheered as the great aircraft was unladen from the special mooring mast and moved away from French Field under her own power.

The Los Angeles flew westward over the Panama Canal, circling over Panama before heading for Cuba. Both the arrival and departure at French Field were carried out without a hitch.

A large squad of sailors was pressed into service at the flying field to aid the ordinary ground crew.

Maximum Light

After heading westward towards Gatun the Los Angeles took a southeasterly course.

Panama Canal Guards and employees cheered as the big ship passed overhead.

The huge dirigible presented a magnificent sight at French Field, perched at the top of a mast erected especially for her coming. The dirigible was moored safely at 10:25 o'clock last night upon the completion of her longest non-stop flight since she crossed the ocean from Germany.

The ship left her home at Lakehurst, N. J., at 6:04 a. m. Monday.

Experts To Probe Ford Plane Crash

Company May Abandon Plans To Place "Flyer" Craft on Market

Detroit, Feb. 28.—The "flier" plane in which Harry Brown, 35-year-old aviator, lost his life in a crash at Midway, Fla., will be subjected to searching inspection by aircraft experts of the Ford Motor Co. in the hope of the engineers what caused the crash and how it was averted.

It was learned today that the Ford flying staff was called to the mid-air crash site at Midway, Fla., and that other pilots of the company were familiar with the plane.

Weather Service said it was raining at the time of the crash.

YOUTH GETS LIFE FOR SLAYING SWEETHEART

BIDS WILL BE SOLICITED ON TWO DESIGNS

Suspended Center and Side Arm Guides Are Approved

PLAN TO BUY SIX

Committee in Charge Favors Corner Standard Over Hanging Type

Another step toward the elimination of pedestrian traffic lights was taken by City Council last night, when an ordinance authorizing Safety Director W. B. Strayer to advertise for bids, and the installation of six lights, was passed without a dissenting vote.

The ordinance provides for new lights at each of the six corners now equipped with the pedestal lights.

While bids will be asked for on both the center and side lights according to Safety Director Strayer, the side light with the arm extending horizontally over the street, is the type recommended by the committee in charge.

In submitting his report, Mr. Strayer, chairman of the committee, said that after a careful investigation which included trips to various of the surrounding cities and also a study of the most modern systems, the committee had come to the decision that the side light was the most practical.

Tells of Survey

"We have been slow in reaching a decision on the lights," Mr. Strayer said, "because we wanted to be absolutely sure that we were doing the right thing. We did not care to have a repetition of the present situation. Our investigation showed that in many of the larger cities, the arm light is replacing the center light. At Toledo we were told the two reasons why the arm light was replacing the center light, was that the center light was difficult to see and also that hanging as it does from cables, it swings in the wind and is more difficult to operate satisfactorily."

With the same number of lamps in the center light as in the side light, the cost of operation of the two types is practically the same, it was pointed out by Mr. Strayer, the center light having 12 lamps and each of the four corner lights having three.

Safety Director Strayer said it was his intention as well as that of the committee, to install the type of light that were believed most desirable and with that thought in view, intended to advertise for bids for both the center and side types.

The side type, lights are attached to an iron pole and are about 15 feet from the ground. The arm extends out from the pole and is equipped with three lights, the same as the present lights, with the exception that there is no lettering as in the present light.

DEMAND PROHIBITION IN 1928 CAMPAIGN

Churchmen and Drys Meet in Capital and Set Up Battle Cry

Washington, Feb. 28.—The prohibition battle cry for the 1928 campaign was raised here today.

"Put prohibition into party platform!"

Nearly a hundred churchmen, prohibitionists got behind the project today at a mass-meeting at the Mayflower Hotel. Almost every reform organization in the country was represented at the meeting, and dozens of papers and addresses were read, all supporting the plan to force the two major parties to definitely go on record in their party platforms in favor of prohibition "in 1928" or in favor of "no definite endorsement method."

Scientists Turn Thumbs Down on "Fuelless Motor" Invented by Pittsburgher

Doubt If Such Generator Can Be Used To Drive Airplanes; Say Operation of Craft by Earth Currents Power Device Would Be Too Heavy

Washington, Feb. 28—Terrestrial magnetism may be harnessed to create energy that will turn wheels and make telegraph instruments tick, a group of government scientists at the Bureau of Standards agreed today. But they turned thumbs down on the mysterious and much discussed "fuelless motor" invented by Lester J. Hendershot of Pittsburgh.

That such a motor or generator can be used to drive airplanes was regarded as extremely doubtful by Dr. Paul R. Heyl, inventor of the earth inductor compass that guided Lindbergh to France, and Dr. H. D. Hubbard, who has visualized such apparent impossibilities as a camera which focuses automatically as does the human eye, and interplanetary transportation.

"You can't get something for nothing," declared Dr. Heyl, whose inductor compass operates on a principle somewhat similar to that of the Hendershot generator.

May Not Be Told
"To operate an airplane requires at least 400 horsepower. A device that would develop that power from earth currents would be too heavy and cumbersome for aircraft."

"If Hendershot's generator operates a motor or lights a light, the whole story of the invention has not been told. From the newspaper dispatches I am at a loss to understand what kind of a machine it is. I can conceive of no practical device that would develop sufficient power from earth magnetism to run an airplane. The earth inductor compass is based on the principle that the voltage of a direct current dynamo is changed by shifting the angle between the magnetic field and the brushes, which collect the current from a revolving armature. The armature is driven by a wind wheel, whose motion is dependent upon the movement of the airplane.

While there are few "impossibilities" in Dr. Hubbard's vocabulary, he said that a "fuelless motor" that would drive an airplane "looks impossible."

"It's a fact that here in the bureau, the light of the north star, millions of light miles away in space has been so directed as to turn a small mirror," Hubbard said.

Explains Manifestations
"A device was used in the war that would detect the presence of a man within 50 feet by the heat given off by his face. But that doesn't mean that the north star's radiation would charge a storage battery, or that water could be boiled by the heat of a man's face."

Hubbard explained some remarkable manifestations of the effect of earth currents, supposed to be the motive power of the new generator. In periods of sun spot maximum it has been found possible to operate telegraph instruments all over eastern United States and in England without batteries, simply from the power generated by magnetic storms.

In theory the magnetic storms light lights since they are responsible for the mysterious phenomenon of the aurora—the blinding electric system of the frozen north.

"But to say that the comparatively weak magnetic field of the earth, which turns the compass needle, will develop in a generator sufficient energy to drive an airplane motor, is too much, and proof of the airplane in flight must be furnished before the invention is taken seriously," Hubbard said.

CAREY SCHOOL TEACHER IS QUIETLY MARRIED

Carey, Feb. 28—Miss Charlotte Alice Keen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. F. Keen, of near Wharton, and Welda Edward Stephan of Richland

Township, were the principals in a quiet wedding at the home of Rev. Harold Bartlett at Wharton at 6 o'clock Saturday night. The bride is second grade teacher in the west end building of Carey public schools, and will continue her work there for the present. They later expect to reside in Knox County near Mt. Vernon, where Mr. Stephan is to be employed in construction work.

DEAN SPEAKS

Ohio Wesleyan Official Addresses Mt. Pleasant Congregation

Mr. G. L. Dean, Feb. 28—Reverend Dean, Dean of Men at Ohio Wesleyan University, addressed the morning church service congregation in the local Methodist Episcopal Church Sunday.

He devoted his sermon to describe the change of conditions in recent years and how these changing conditions affected industry, education, young people, and religion. He has spent four years in China as a missionary. He described the changes brought about between 1920 and 1924 when he was in the Orient.

COMING STARS of the MOVIES

Thelma Todd

MANY are called but few are chosen! That old rule still holds good, and it never has been exemplified than in the case of Thelma Todd. This blonde Massachusetts beauty was one of the many aspirants who attended the now famous "movie school" on Long Island. And, singularly enough, she's the only one of the battalion who has stuck, and who is headed for stardom.

Thelma is fortunate in that her golden loveliness screens exceedingly well. Then, too, she has had "breaks." She has managed to win a leading woman's role in several important films. Not to overlook the fact that she is rapidly acquiring a neat little acting technique all her own.

And you can't beat that combination of ability, pulchritude and luck.

MRS. PINCHOT RUNS

Wife of Former Governor Seeks To Represent District in Congress

Washington, Feb. 28.—Cornelia Bryce Pinchot, wife of ex-Gov. Clifford Pinchot of Pennsylvania, had announced her candidacy for congress from the Fifth District, now represented by Rep. Louis B. McFadden, a seven-term veteran.

In a telegram to Frank E. Wood of Sarre, Pa., announcing her candidacy, Mrs. Pinchot indicated that a bone-dry plank will be one of the foremost parts of her platform structure.

"To vote dry is not enough," she said. "Public men and women should live as they vote. I pledge myself to vote dry, live dry, and to work for the dry cause."

COOLIDGE ACTS

Urges Congress Give $150,000 at Once To Fight Pink Boll Worm

Washington, Feb. 28.—Reports of the spread of the pink boll worm of cotton in Texas has caused President Coolidge to ask that $150,000 be provided immediately by Congress for the Department of Agriculture's campaign against the cotton pest.

He previously had requested $100,000 for immediate use. The recommendation calls for a total appropriation of $400,000, the balance to be available next year.

Annual Northward Pageant of Migrating Birds in Most Fascinating Mystery Play

Spring Arrival Dates for Ohio Show Decided Regularly, Says Professor; Killdeer and Meadowlark Reappear During First 15 Days of March

WHETHER a lion or a lamb ushers in the month of March, we are now certain to witness the prologue of one of nature's most fascinating mystery plays—the annual northward

HOW DOCTORS STOP HEADACHE

Dr. James' Method

Here's a famous physician's prescription to relieve headaches. And it does the work quicker than anything on earth. Millions have proved Dr. James' Headache Powders safe and dependable. They stop the worst headaches in two minutes—all ordinary ones in a minute. They never fail. They drive away neuralgia, too! They're specifically compounded just to do this—nothing more. That's why they bring relief so quick. Drug stores all over America recommend them. Next time just ask for Dr. James' Headache Powders, and see that you get them. They're just a dime. A clear head—neuralgia gone—comfort—for a few cents!—Adv.

pageant of migrating birds. For some species this is a journey of thousands of miles, beset with many hazards, yet something which we have vaguely called "instinct" drives them to under take this perilous trip, and guides them like weary shutters back to their proper place in the pattern of bird life of North America.

Spring arrival dates for Ohio show decided regularly, becoming even more pronounced as the season advances. The dates we give here are for central Ohio and in many cases a correction of a week or more must be made in our most southern counties. Indeed, many individuals of the species in the March list spend the winter north of the Ohio River, as has been intimated in our February bird chat. To the north these over-wintering individuals become less numerous and perhaps an extra three days should be allowed for localities near the lake.

Here Come Blackbirds

During the first fifteen days of March, the Killdeer and the Meadowlark reappear in our open fields. Robins, Mourning Doves and the traditional harbingers of spring, the bluebirds, are again with us in numbers. Flocks of noisy Bronzed Grackles (Crow Blackbirds), wheel into tree-tops at sunset. Marshes now awaken to the "o-k-a-lee" of the Red-winged Blackbird males, who will be joined a little later by the more somber-cold females.

Between March 10 and 25 come Marsh Hawks to beat back and forth above our lowlands in search of luckless meadow mice. High in the sky we see circling Red-shouldered Hawks, misnamed Hen Hawks. The Rusty Grackle stops for a few days enroute to a more northern home. Flickers now appear in numbers and down by the river bridge, Phoebe, the earliest of fly-catchers, calls her name in euphonic accents. Towhees (Chewinks) and Song Sparrows from the south join their more hardy fellows who wintered here. In shrubbery and undergrowth look for that big, handsome, rust-colored Fox Sparrow, another bird of passage with only a stop-over privilege.

Master Aviator

March 15 to 30 brings that master aviator, the Turkey Vulture, who is really not a buzzard, despite his popular name. Anglers in the form of Belted Kingfishers haunt our streams, unlooked for in prison walls. The Cowbird, a blackguard who shuns domestic care, now struts about pasture fields and the rather rare Migrant Shrike (Butcher Bird) resumes operations, especially where thorny bushes furnish sharp spikes upon which to impale his victims.

From March 20 to April 5 we may expect to find Sapuckers tapping pine, maple, apple or other trees, one of the few destructive acts attributed to woodpeckers. The whistled "fo-o, fo-o, fo-o, few, few, few, few" announces the arrival of downy Field Sparrows and the sweet-voiced Vesper Sparrow, gray with its fieldmark of white outer tail-feathers, may also be seen before April showers come.

Possibly the Chipping Sparrow and the Purple Martin will be with us before the month ends, but we had better leave them to head our April list.

APPEAL ACTION TAKEN UNDER ADVISEMENT

Case Involving C. D. & M. May Be Sent Back to Tax Commission

The question of whether the C. D. & M. Electric Co. is entitled to readjustment of the tax value fixed on its property by the Ohio Tax Commission was taken under advisement by Judge Scofield following hearing of the company's appeal action in Common Pleas Court yesterday.

Possibility of the case being sent back to the Tax Commission for review was indicated at the conclusion of yesterday's proceedings. Judge Scofield stated that he would announce his plan of procedure after attorneys on both sides have filed briefs.

The Tax Commission on Sept. 19, 1927 fixed the tax value of the C. D. & M. property at $8,361,211. The company later filed its appeal in court, naming County Auditor Earl E. Thomas and the state commission as defendants. The company contends that its valuation is approximately $300,000 too high.

In its petition and in yesterday's hearing, the company also aimed to show that methods used by the commission in arriving at the valuation are faulty and erroneous.

Point in Question

The question of whether the C. D. & M. filed application for a rehearing before the commission prior to bringing its action in court is a point which remains to be cleared up. W. R. Shank, auditor employed by the commission, who was the only witness examined, said that he had no record of such application having been filed. W. P. Moloney, attorney for the C. D. & M., introduced evidence to show that an application was submitted.

Final evidence on this point is likely to have a vital bearing on the outcome of the court case, it was indicated.

As a result of the filing of this suit, no taxes have been assessed this year against the C. D. & M. in any of the counties where it operates. The proceedings will be concluded at the earliest possible date, it was indicated, in order that the tax revenue may be available in these communities.

In yesterday's hearing the state and county were represented by Judge Virgil H. Gibbs, assistant attorney general, and Prosecuting Attorney Wiedemann, while W. P. Moloney appeared as counsel for the C. D. & M.

A gentleman is one who understands and shows every mark of deference to the claims of self-love in others and exacts it in return from them.—Hazlitt.

JOYRIDERS TAKE TWO CARS; ONE IS FOUND

Police Recover Machine Belonging to S. R. McIntire; Dr. Lower's Machine Missing

Joyriders continued activities in Marion last night when they took automobiles belonging to S. R. McIntire, M. Kensington and Dr. H. J. Lower. Both cars were taken between 7 and 9 o'clock and both were taken from S. Prospect-st. The McIntire car was recovered by the police this morning on E. Church-st while the Lower car had not been found this morning.

Shortly after 9 o'clock McIntire reported to the police that his Cleveland car had been taken from S. Prospect-st and a few minutes later Dr. Lower reported the theft of his Buick Master from S. Prospect-st near Church. The Lower car bore Ohio license 2-50112 with the name Lower on a paper mat on the running boards.

Girl Who Lost Legs in Straightening Operation Wants $200,000

Chicago, Feb. 28—Praxel in a $200,000 damage suit, filed by Miss Helen Holland, 30-year-old stenographer, against Dr. Henry J. Schireson, plastic surgeon, was on file in Circuit Court today.

Miss Holland charges that both her legs had to be amputated above the knees as the result of an unsuccessful operation which was performed for the purpose of straightening them.

Dr. Schireson accepted service on the suit, but denied that he performed the disastrous operation.

Parisian Gown Makers Agree with Pope's Recent Denunciation

Paris, Feb. 28—The vigorous denunciation of modern women's dress by Pope Pius was upheld in milder tone today by leading Parisian gown makers who set the exclusive fashions of Europe and America.

"War and the scarcity of materials brought on short dresses," said Jacques Worth. "Happily, normally post-war conditions are bringing back normal dress conditions as well. There is no question that the war lowered moral standards and dresses were shortened. Men were scarce and women were obliged to vie with each other in attractiveness. These conditions are changed. Modesty has become the watchword and we dressmakers are among the first to back it up and support it."

CHICAGO TO PRAY

Will Ask Divine Aid Out of Its "Wilderness of Crime"

CHICAGO, Feb. 28—Bold, had Chicago is to have a day of general prayer, on which divine assistance will be asked to lead the city out of the "wilderness of crime."

Wednesday, March 7, has been set aside as the day. Plans for general observance by citizens of all races and creeds are being worked out today by the Union Ministers' Association, originator of the idea.

NEW INSPECTION JOB IS CREATED

sewer taps in the city with a view to correcting connections.

According to city officials there has been considerable trouble over wrong connections, the State Health Department taking issue with the city on the pollution of Rock Swale.

This pollution which the city has been ordered to remedy is the result of sanitary lines being tapped into storm water sewers. Instead of sewage passing through sanitary trunks to the disposal plant it is carried with surface water through storm sewers to Rock Swale.

Correction of wrong connections likewise will relieve sanitary sewers, city officials say. Many storm taps and cellar drains have been tapped into the sanitary line of storm sewers, resulting in the overloading of sanitary sewers during heavy rains.

Plan Building Code
To provide a program for the inspector to follow arrangements are being made to draw up a building code. This code, it was said by Solicitor Geran, will not attempt to correct mistakes that have been made in the construction of buildings but will seek to prevent errors in the future.

The code will make inspection of all new buildings mandatory, according to Solicitor Geran. The inspector will be qualified to inspect wiring, proper construction of chimneys, heating plants and sewer taps.

In all probability the code will be drafted at a conference between local contractors, builders, real estate men and members of City Council.

CHORUS TO SING

Calvary Church Group To Appear at Greenwood Revival

Members of the Men's Chorus of Calvary Evangelical Church will be heard in several numbers at the revival service tonight at Greenwood Evangelical Church, it was announced today by the pastor, Rev. Irvin Kauffman. At that time Rev. A. J. Foreman of Mt. Carmel, who has been assisting Reverend Kauffman with the special services, will preach on "The Unlifted Serpent," a type of the crucifixion, basing his message on John 3:14-15.

With Sunday night's service Greenwood Evangelical Church entered on the third week of a revival. There have been 12 conversions during that time, three at last Sunday's service. Services are to be held at 7:30 o'clock each night this week, closing at the evening service Sunday. Last night was rest night.

Revival services at Fite Memorial Baptist were brought to a close Sunday night. Fifty-four conversions were made during the three week period of special services. Rev. E. C. Poter of Springfield, who assisted with the services, concluded his duties here with a sermon on the subject, "The Final Warning."

SHORT CIRCUIT CAUSES FIRE THAT BURNS AUTO

A short circuit in the wiring caused a blaze which did $50 damage to an Overland touring car belonging to W. E. Saunders, 410 Waterloo-st early last night. The blaze was put out with chemicals by firemen from the No. 2 station who answered a call sent in by members of the family.

DIRIGIBLE LEAVES PANAMA CANAL ZONE

Cuba Destination of Big Airship; Presents Magnificent Sight at Field

Her mooring was effected after maneuvering of about a half an hour without undue trouble. Three hundred soldiers helped anchor the ship.

Hall Flight Results

The work of Lieut. Command. Charles B. Rosendahl and officers and men of the crew in handling the ship was accorded high praise from all sides.

Naval officials hailed the dirigible's feat as a practical demonstration of the feasibility of using dirigibles for long distance flights.

The portable mooring mast to which the ship was anchored was constructed in the United States under the direction of Commander Rosendahl and was shipped to the Canal Zone about two weeks ago.

The dirigible's successful flight was originally planned three years ago but was abandoned at that time because of a shortage of helium gas.

Weather Not Good
The ship performed up to expectations in every way, although Commander Rosendahl declared after the landing that weather conditions had not proved as favorable as had been expected. The inclement weather encountered by the ship was given as the reason for its tardy arrival. It had been expected at 6 p. m.

A huge throng had collected at the field when the anchorage was made. Roads leading to the field were jammed with vehicles of every description.

Ground lights on the field and red lights atop the hangars and houses on the field intermingled to add to the glamour of the scene.

ANOTHER BAD CHECK ON SHOVEL IS FOUND

Was Drawn for $59 and Cash—ed at Cincinnati by Merchant

Another forged check drawn on the Marion Steam Shovel Co. was received at the Marion Savings Bank in mail remittances today, making a total of four which have come to light since the forgery operations started early in January.

The check arriving today was for $59, the largest of the four cashed thus far, and was made payable to "A. B. Chamberlain." A notation accompanying the endorsement gave the payee's address as "392 Leroy-av, Akron."

The check, dated Feb. 18, was cashed by Kline's, Incorporated, a retail mercantile firm at Cincinnati, and was deposited with the Pearl-Market Bank in that city.

Checks Total $158
The four forged checks received up to this time amount to $158. All have been returned to banks in the cities where payments were made. Business houses where the checks were cashed must stand the loss, it was stated.

All of the forgeries are on checks bearing the imprint of the Marion Steam Shovel Co., giving them the appearance of payroll checks.

The first of the forgeries, dated Jan. 3, was received from Toledo, where it had been cashed at a department store. The amount was $39.

No others showed up until last Friday, when one for $19, cashed at the Auditorium Hotel in Cleveland, was received. The next one arrived in the mail Saturday. It was for $39 and had been cashed at a store in Lima. These two were made out to "P. Patton" and the one in January, the first of the series, was made out to "David Baxter."

Same Handwriting
All four checks are in the same handwriting. It was stated at the Marion Savings Bank.

It is impossible to place an estimate on the extent of the forger's operations at this time, those conducting the investigation say. It is apparent that he is travelling from one city to another, probably using the forged checks to pay his expenses.

The case is now in the hands of the detective bureaus of state and national bankers' organizations and warnings have been sent to all banks in this section of the country.

The forger, however, is apparently playing it safe and making no attempts to obtain money at the banks, his operations thus far having been limited to stores and one hotel.

SCHOOLS WASTEFUL

President of Harvard Makes Charge at Education Convention

Boston, Feb. 28—With the charge of President A. Lawrence Lowell of Harvard that American schools are wasteful and the ringing defense of the schools by Dr. Frank D. Boynton, superintendent of schools in Ithaca, N. Y., still the chief topic of discussion, the National Education Association convention devoted itself to other educational subjects today.

VETERINARIANS TO ATTEND CONFERENCE

J. T. Gruber and Drs. Alapach and Douce Will Represent City at Meeting

City Milk and Meat Inspector J. T. Gruber, and Drs. O. C. Alapach, 140 E. Mill-st, and M. F. Douce, 132 N. Vine-st, will represent this city at the third annual veterinary conference to be held at Ohio State University, on March 22, 23 and 24. It was announced by the veterinarians attending the conference.

While Dr. Gruber will attend only on the day on which dairy cattle and diseases of dairy cattle will be discussed, Drs. Alapach and Douce are planning to attend each of the three days.

More than 3,500 veterinarians, representing seven states, are expected to attend the conference which is, according to Dean David S. White, of the college of veterinary medicine, to be for the purpose of promoting live stock industry in the various states to be represented. Among the speakers will be Dr. H. B. Hilly, of Toledo, new president of the American Veterinary Medical Association.

The cattle practice round table will be led by Dr. D. H. Odell, of Cornell University with three Ohio practitioners contributing to the formal discussion.

VILLAGES FLOODED, 20,000 HOMELESS

Yellow River Bursts Banks in Northeast Section of Shantung Province

Pekin, Feb. 28—Eighty villages were inundated and 20,000 persons were made homeless when the Yellow River overflowed and burst its banks at Liliang in the northeast section of the Province of Shantung, according to a dispatch received today from the International Famine Relief Commission.

This latest catastrophe added to the horror and suffering of residents in the province. Four million Shantungese are now starving from recent droughts and famines, it is reported.

DIDN'T LIKE DOG; SHOT

ALSO WOUNDS HIS WIFE
Montreal, Que., Feb. 28—George Wright did not approve of "Lulu," his bride's pet lap dog. He said so. "Shoot her, then," his bride said playfully.

Wright did. The bullet pierced the dog's brain and passed into Mrs. Wright's body, entering one corner of a lung. The horror-stricken husband summoned a physician, who said Mrs. Wright will live.

New Hair Mode Seen in New York
The most beautiful girls in New York are doing their hair the new way. It's so lovely, but so simple. That's why it appeals to popular girls, who need to save time wherever they can. One of the loveliest of them is attractive Mary Chandler, for three seasons a member of "George White's Scandals" and now appearing in "Artists and Models." She says, "I am so busy. I don't know how I'd take care of my hair, if I hadn't learned the new way so many of my girl friends are doing theirs."

"All I do now is put a few dashes of Danderine on my brush each time I use it. This wonderful preparation keeps my hair looking so lovely that many friends want to touch it. I set my waves with Danderine, too, and it holds them over so much longer. All dandruff disappeared with a few applications, and my scalp always feels fine. I shampoo just once a month, now. Danderine keeps my hair so clean."

Danderine removes that oily film from your hair and gives it new life and lustre. It makes hair easy to dress and holds it in place. It isn't oily and doesn't show. It gives tone and vigor to the scalp. All drug stores have the 30c bottles. A delicately fragrant necessity for the well-groomed girl—Adv.

Safety of Air Travel.

Monday's wires told us that the plane of Harry Brooks had been found, but that no trace of the aviator had been discovered, which makes reasonable the assumption that he met his death when his plane crashed into the sea off the coast of Florida. This morning's despatches were to the effect that no trace of either Commander T. G. Ellsby and two companions, who left Hampton Roads Monday morning for Annapolis, or their plane had been found.

We have been assured of the safety of airplane travel when an experienced pilot is at the controls. Lack of experience may explain, possibly does explain, many airplane tragedies, unfriendly weather conditions may explain others, but in these two cases the weather conditions were good and certainly there can not be question of either the experience or ability of Harry Brooks, the chief test pilot of the Ford company, or of the experience of Commander Ellsby, the original air pilot of the navy.

There must be more than experience and ability on the part of an aviator to assure safety in airplane flights. There must be as near perfection as is possible in both motor and machine. It is to be questioned if any pilot, no matter what his experience and ability, can make aeroplanes safe in a defective machine. A finely-made machine doesn't go wrong without reason, but, unfortunately, the reason may develop at any time and come unexpectedly. In the face of all the aviation tragedies of the past twelve months, we must assume either that the aeroplane has not reached the stage of development where phenomena like this is safe, or that but comparatively few of the men handling aeroplanes have the knack of handling them in time of emergency.

We have our Lindbergh, and there is Hinkler, and Costes, and Le Bris, and a few others, who have made long-sustained flights without mishap, but arrayed against these are dozens of experienced pilots, pilots of recognized ability, who have crashed to their deaths, mute witnesses in opposition to the view that travel by heavier-than-air machines in their present state of development is as safe as it should be.

When Fortune Ceases To Smile.

According to press reports, Charles Ray and his wife are living in a two-room flat in New York's East Side and experiencing a hard struggle for existence. Charles is out of a job and broke. His wife is playing with a stock company in Yonkers. Charles hopes to get a part in a Broadway production in the near future, and both of them hope to stage a comeback to the wealth and popularity they once shared. Both are strong in this hope, but thus far a hope is all it has proved. Still, they are young and, while they may never attain the fortune they once enjoyed, such success may be theirs as forever to free them from their present condition. Let us hope so.

It was but a few years ago that Charles Ray was the idol of millions of movie fans. He possessed what out here in the Middle-West would be considered wealth. He owned a beautiful $250,000 home out in Hollywood, and he and his wife entertained lavishly. Mrs. Ray was noted for her high taste in gowns designed for her exclusively. It is said that she never wore one of them a second time. Money was plentiful with the Rays at that time. It was with them, as with most people of the screen, a case of easy come, easy go. Those were the days when it took but little ability to pull down big salaries—salaries out of all proportion to ability—in the screen world. Money went to the heads of a lot of screen people, Charles among them, and he started out to be his own producer. He had attained such popularity in the world of celluloid, that he imagined himself a business man as well, and he wasn't. He and his wife lost all they had when, in 1923, he went bankrupt for nearly a million dollars. Meanwhile the reaction against outlandish salaries had set in among the big movie producers. People began to ask for acting, and a lot of the so-called stars could not deliver it. New people were secured and the majority of the old ones—old to the screen only—began to slip. Charles was among them. He wasn't able to stage a comeback. He had gone, so far as popularity with the public is concerned—and, consequently, so far as popularity with the producers went—the way many have since gone and many are still going.

It's the old story, which has done duty for centuries. Money came so easily to a lot of the movie stars that its value did not appeal to them, and they lived beyond all sense or reason. Not only did they work hard to themselves, but to the public also. They created a false standard of living. They spent without thought of the future, believing that the same conditions which then obtained would continue indefinitely. They were aped in their styles of dress, in their manners, in their outlook on living, by the unthinking among their audiences, with the result that thousands and hundreds of thousands, yes millions, throughout the land began to live beyond their means—a possibility for a time, but a possibility ever attended by a day of reckoning. That day has already come to many. It is bound to come to many more. One who has never experienced affluence may not appreciate what he has missed, but nothing can be much sadder than the loss of fortune to one who has once enjoyed fortune. And this is true, also, of one who, having attained great popularity, loses it. Nothing so appreciates to us the value of a thing we have had as the loss of it, and no loss can be so keenly felt as that which marks our transition from the heights to the depths. This is why we feel sorry for Charles Ray, no matter what may have been his monetary folly. This is why we feel sorry for any one, who, having accumulated not only worldly goods, but worldly acclaim as well, suffers the loss of both.

Amadeo P. Giannini, son of an Italian immigrant, who has become the financial colossus of the Pacific coast, has acquired possession of the Bank of America, one of New York's oldest institutions, as well as the Bowers bank and the East River National bank. Something tells us that Mr. Giannini doesn't take any stock in the claim, often heard, that America is no longer the "Land of Opportunity."

Canada has placed a duty on all American periodical publications containing fiction, but no critical or descriptive articles, news items or current events, which it is said will cause forty-nine American magazines, popular up there, to pay a duty of twenty-five per cent ad valorem of the general tariff. We never imagined that many true story and confession magazines were published in this country.

Four men sailed from Rotterdam, Sunday, for New York City in a twenty-foot boat, expecting to make the trip in forty days. There certainly are a lot of ways of defying fate and courting death which would make suicide a lot easier.

Franco's "Forty Immortals" of the Academie Francese—at least many of them—have been expelled for a number of years to live on twenty cents a day, and the best they ever received was the equivalent of a dollar in our money. Were the French to pay less attention to the dollar-chasing than we do to it, and do a little themselves in the line of their "Immortals" it would speak highly for their appreciation of the higher and finer things of life.

Explorer Jack McLaren says the South Sea savages simply can not understand why white people wear clothing in the daytime when it is hot and take it off at night when it is cold. If the savages give us a little time, we may appreciate our folly. The girls already seem to be headed the savage way.

From Orville Wright's article in the United States Air Service magazine, one may well infer that the original Wright machine has gone to London, not as a result of a careless statement on the Langley machine in the Smithsonian institution, but rather as the result of a studied plan to withhold from the Wright brothers, one of whom has passed, the honor of having designed and operated the first heavier-than-air machine capable of flight. In other words, it's more of the same old stuff with which Washington has long been tarred.

ONE TROUBLE WITH A STAR SALESMAN

Cataract Can Be Overcome.

BY ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

A letter comes from a worried mother asking about "congenital cataract." She wants to know its cause and what to do about it.

The popular idea is that cataract is a "skin over the eye," a film of some sort that shuts out light. As a matter of fact it is not on the eye—it is in the eye.

Back of the colored part of the eye, behind the pupil is a structure called the "crystalline lens." In health the lens is as clear and transparent as a well polished spectacle lens. It is not visible through the pupil, it is as readily seen through as a piece of plate glass.

If the "crystalline lens" loses its transparency, if it becomes milky and cloudy, then there is a cataract, which we call cataract. Lack of cleanness of the lens, no matter what its cause may be, is cataract. The ordinary form of cataract is called "senile cataract." It is so called because it comes in advanced life and is one of the symptoms of old age. But once in a great while a baby is born with cataract in one or both eyes. This is congenital cataract.

Why does it come to afflict a tiny baby? Before the infant is born, while it is being carried close to its mother's heart, it is absolutely dependent on its mother for nourishment and growth. Unless her health is good and all her functions are perfect, the unborn babe is in danger.

If for some reason there is ill health or six months before the baby is born, one of the possible consequences is to have the nourishment of the tiny eye interfered with and hardness of the lens in consequence. Then the baby is born with cataract.

The eye is a remarkable structure. It is delicately and wonderfully made. The chief blood supply of the interior of the eye comes from a big artery which perforates the back of the eyeball and spreads out over the interior surface of the eye.

In the very early stages of the development of the infant, a branch of this artery stretches across the space in the back part of the eyeball. It is like a strand of cable and is called the "hyaloid artery."

It is the function of the hyaloid artery to supply nourishment and building material for what is to be the crystalline lens. So rapid and perfect is the development that a few months before the baby's birth, the eye and crystalline lens are complete. Then the hyaloid artery dries up and disappears. Unfortunately, the bad health of the mother or some accidental thing may interfere with this activity of the hyaloid artery. In consequence the lens may be imperfect or scarred. Then we have congenital cataract and the baby is born blind or partially blind.

What can be done about it? The eye can be "needled." A fine needle is thrust into the eyeball, the baby being anesthetized. The simple operation permits the fluid of the eye to enter the lens substance. This causes the lens substance to dissolve and absorb. After two or three such treatments, the opacity is gone and there is nothing to prevent sight.

When the child grows older glasses must be worn to do what the crystalline lens would do if it were present and normal. Focusing of the objects is needed, of course, and if the eye can't do this, glasses will be required.

Congenital cataract is a misfortune, but, as you see, its effects can be overcome. Many happy persons have gone through life with no greater affliction than the need of glasses, in spite of the fact that they were born with cataract.

ANSWERS TO HEALTH QUERIES

R. J. W. Q.—What do you advise for gaining weight?

A.—Eat plenty of good, nourishing food, including milk, cream, eggs, fresh vegetables and fruits. Exercise daily in the open air and practice deep breathing. Sleep as many hours as possible in a well-ventilated room. Avoid worry and faulty elimination. Take a good tonic, such as cod liver oil.

Q.—This is usually due to poor circulation. Build up your general health and your circulation should improve.—Copyright 1928, Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.

Editorial Comment.

THE ASSASSIN'S BOMB.

The country and the world are treated to the spectacle of a great city shivering in dread because of the activity of criminal and murderous individuals who have resorted to the use of the high explosive bomb to strike terror into the hearts of its authorities and into the hearts of those of their own kind who may have fallen under the ban of their disapproval.

Chicago authorities confess weakness when they state their inability to ferret out and punish these night marauding terrorists.

It is reported that the homes of the mayor of the city, of the state's attorney, the city comptroller, the police commissioner and other city officials have to be surrounded by guards for their protection. The situation is unthinkable. The police commissioner asserts that his department has no clue to these outrages.

Well, the clues must exist, and it appears to be high time for the mayor and his police and detective departments to get together and do something. No criminal can long escape the law when earnest and intensive effort is made to apply and enforce it.

Chicago is up against a proposition which should require the adoption of drastic measures to enable the city to cope with it. How many known criminals are running at large, how many of them are enjoying political protection? These gangs can and should be dealt with just as we deal with snakes, mad beasts and destroying diseases.

If Mayor Thompson could quit fighting King George and the British empire long enough to give some needed attention to the affairs of his own city there would be fewer bomb-throwers in it.

It is not a nice thing to have the news go abroad throughout the world that a great American community—one of the greatest in the nation—is cowering before the threats and activities of criminals who resort to the bomb as an instrument with which to wreak vengeance or to impose criminal superiority over the demands of law and order.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

THEY DO COME BACK.

The old saying that "they never come back" is being effectively contradicted by a man who spent nearly a quarter of a century in a penitentiary for murder, at one time within the shadow of the gallows, but who used his prison life to good advantage in educating himself and who is now, slightly more than a year after his release, a respected business man and the owner of a thriving enterprise. "Lifetime Jake" Pensendorfer was sentenced to hang for the murder of his father-in-law in 1901. Two days before the execution was scheduled the sentence was commuted to life imprisonment. Just before Christmas of 1926 he was released. He is now the head of a wood-working and cabinet factory at West Berlin, New Jersey, a trade that he learned in prison, and the majority of his employees are ex-convicts to whom he has given the opportunity to go straight with him.

"Lifetime Jake" should be an inspiration for the men who are down, but not out. He has only two rules for his employees: They are "Follow the straight path!" and "Quit booze entirely!" During his prison term he learned one of the greatest and most important attributes of the human race—tolerance. He will give every man a chance in his factory and asks only that they measure up to the standards of respectable life. Congratulations to "Lifetime Jake" and a hope that he will live long enough to reclaim others who have trod in the path of crime!—Washington Star.

Vagrant Verse.

WHEN YOU ARE OLD.

When you are old, and even you shall change,
And be no longer perilous and young,
When all save peace within four walls are strange
Followed and slain to live your life among;
When you are old, as I am old and alone,
And no guests come, because of stormy weather,
Remember all the comrades you have known
That time has swept into the dust together.
And so remembering what year on year
Has dealt with justly, though not tenderly,
Let me appear, as all lost things appear,
More lonely and bewildering to see.
Than anything you kept your whole life through,
To bring you disillusion to the end,
And in that hour forgive me that I, too,
Had lacked some virtue to remain your friend.
—Helene Mallin.

A Moon Cross.

BY GARRETT P. SEBIVS.

"This morning on looking out at the moon at 6 o'clock there was a perfect cross visible which looked about twenty feet long in the sky, and right in the center of it was the moon! Can you give me any information as to the probable cause and the probable meaning of it?"—C. C. R., Philmont, New York, February 7."

I congratulate you on having been a witness of a species of aerial phenomenon that nature does not trouble herself to show to everybody. It was a rare form of "parasele," or "lunar halo" that you saw. The word "halo" is used as recklessly as the word "charity"—one to "cover a multitude of sins" and the other to hide a multitude of ignorance. There is no other subject connected with meteorology that you will find so diversely treated, or so confusedly and incompletely. The fact is that these phenomena, depending upon both refraction and reflection of light by ice particles, or mist particles, in the air are so varied in their appearances, so capricious in their individuality, and so uncertain in the circumstances of their apparition, that it seems useless to try to classify them in any but the most general way. Plain halos and coronas are easy enough to explain, but the "paras" are complicated and colish.

Your phenomenon was due to light reflected from an imperceptible cloud of—probably—ice-crystals in the atmosphere around—para—the place where the moon—Seleno—appeared to be disporting herself in a cool bath of morning air, and hence its Greek name, parasele. It must be confessed that sometimes the careful dissection of a classical name like this furnishes nearly all the popular knowledge that science is prepared to make known on the subject. Taking the existence of the floating ice-crystals as an acceptable postulate, and not disputing the geometrical principles upon which the theory of halos is developed, you may feel that the explanation still falls short of showing the reason why the light should take the form of a cross, with the moon in the center, which is the very nub of the question!

But something of the kind can be seen in ordinary experience by watching the appearance of the reflection of the sun or moon or other light in troubled water which acts like a cloud of reflecting particles, the reflection taking the form of a band extending to and fro, or in what may be described from the observer's view point, as a vertical direction. Sometimes, with moving water you will see a cross beam also. The discussion of the manner in which the reflecting ice crystals produce horizontal and vertical bands centering around the sun or moon is far too complicated to be described here. For this you can consult books on physical optics such as Professor R. W. Wood's.

The "meaning" of the phenomenon is of the nature of a weather prophecy—though it is not very definite. It shows, at least, that there is frozen mist in the upper air and so gives some slight clue to the humidity of the atmosphere. But the psychological influence of these sky apparitions is very great. The figure of a cross mysteriously glowing in the sky appears to be particularly impressive to the majority of observers. One of the most famous of all Alpine tragedies—that attending the first ascent of the formidable Matterhorn in 1865—was burned deep into the world's memory as much, perhaps, by the great luminous cross that rose silently and awfully into the sky before the eyes of the nerve-shattered survivors, as by the terrible loss of life. The cross was produced by reflection of sunlight from clouds of ice particles over the mountain. Scattered through meteorological literature are many strange stories of "mock suns," "mock moons," marching columns of light and other luminous phenomena, which can be explained only in the most general manner. They at least serve to keep wonder alive, and wonder is a parent of knowledge.—Copyright, 1928, International Feature Service, Inc.

Life on the Atlantic.

BY O. O. MINTIRE.

New York, Feb. 25.—The ocean is tossing today and the ship jumps about like a fiddler's elbow. There is no sensation like that of the ground suddenly leaving you and the feeling of treading on a soft, low cloud. Grogginess fades away at angles in the companionway. The stewards are galloping with suspicious pans.

A snow storm is raging on the Atlantic and the sevel plunges through a curtain of white. At three-minute intervals the fog horn bleats its dismal warning—a eerie hoarse cry like a lost, despairing soul. In the storm's mist a snow man, like a wraith in a mist, stamps about, peering into a hopeless void. Of debris there's not a sign.

Passengers are thawing out. They are losing their reserve, their stiffness, and some, of course, their breakfasts. Groups are pairing off for bridge, poker and gossip. In twenty-four hours a liner takes on the neighborly friendliness of the cross-road hamlet.

Isolation from land and the uncertainty of the sea breed a close-knit intimacy. A banker from Montreal in the smoking-room today insisted I should not call him Mister. That, of course, in Broadway patter, is a bowl of charity. He will probably wrinkle a brow to recall me a week hence in London or Paris.

This afternoon Ray Long, Charlie Norris and I attended one of these private art exhibits by a Brazilian painter. It seemed to me we did nothing but gush. Had he shown us a can of tomatoes we would have called it exquisitely beautiful—such feeling, perspective, and all that!

The official pessimist staggered out today to observe that at midnight tomorrow we would reach the exact spot where the Titanic hit its iceberg, but he was quite overshadowed by the little seven-year-old optimist on the promenade deck who said: "Nurse, if I had my life to live over I'd spend it on the ocean."

A rap just now at the door revealed a stunkie who handed in an engraved card with a grave bow. It read: "The committee requests from you the honour to join him in a cocktail at his quarters at 8:30 p. m." O, the sailor's life! the life tra la!

The liner manure girl leads a rather enviable life, drifting fortnightly from France to America. She has made 115 crossings, and the world and his wife have sat at her little table. She is dark, bright-eyed, and has the accent of a French stage lady. I inquired if she received many offers of marriage. "But certainly, Monsieur," she replied. "American gentlemen drink us wine and volia, say grow sentimental. But it is—what you call it—je frolic." She is the wife, anyway, of a sturdy farmer in Brittany.

Champagne cocktails are twenty cents and dry Martinis thirty-two cents. Beer is about twelve cents for a large glass. After dinner liquors average twenty-five cents. I could continue and keep you sobbing all night. Yet it is fair to say I have seen no overindulgence. The aperitif and coffee, afterward seem to make up the bulk of trade in the bar.

Smoking-room stewards—or bar waiters—are invariably high-class servants. They must speak French, Italian, German and English. They are as carefully selected as ship officers, and a bar steward with tips alone has a greater income than the captain of the vessel. The chief smoking-room steward is in charge of auction pool, and receives a ten per cent share making his income often more than $10,000 a year. Some day transatlantic liners will be auction pool. It serves no good purpose as to draw ocean gamblers—or grayhounds as they are called. Two I have known by name for years are on this boat.

My sweetheart for the voyage is a little girl from Carson City, Nevada, eighty-one years old. She is joining her son in London for a trip to Constantinople. She takes an avid interest in everything and says she will not miss a meal.—Copyright, 1928, by the McNaught Syndicate, Inc.

START SEVEN-HOUR DAY IN 35 PLANTS

Great Soviet Experiment Begins Operation on New Basis with Success

Moscow—The great Soviet experiment with the seven-hour day has started. Thirty-five factories and mills, especially in the textile industry, are operating on the new basis with apparent success, and more will follow as soon as production has been put on an efficient basis.

In 22 cotton cloth, yard and knitted goods factories the switch to the shorter working day has brought the three shift system into play so that instead of using the machinery 16 hours in 24 it will be in use 21. In the Moscow district where most of the mills are situated about 125,000 employees are affected.

Industry Rationalized
About 30,000 additional workers have been taken on for the third shift. Production of cotton cloth is expected to be increased by 75,000,000 yards, this year as a result. This will be due to the added shift.

Whether the production per man hour will be increased is a question, and with wages remaining the same as they were on an eight hour basis, it is doubtful whether the cost of production will be lowered.

The latter is regarded of vital importance since the weakness of the Soviet industrialization program has been that prices of manufactured goods are from two to five times those of neighboring capitalistic countries.

Industry Rationalized
The manifesto of the Central Executive committee last October announced that the seven-hour day would be put into effect gradually in those industries which were "rationalized" beginning with October 1, 1928. The plan is running seven months ahead of schedule.

Virtually the entire oil industry with the exception of unskilled hands employed in it, is already on a seven-hour schedule. The planning commission has decreed that all new government factories opening this year must immediately start on the short day basis.

Foreign concessions will be the next to follow. Public utility employees in Moscow and other large cities will probably work one hour less each day beginning March 1.

"Two Stolen Idols"

A Story of Love and Adventure

BY FRANK L. PACKARD

(Copyright, 1937, Geo. H. Doran Co., by Arrangement with King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

CHAPTER 35

HE swung sharply away from the wall, and walked quickly across the deck to where Verna had just appeared from the cabin companionway. He caught her by the arm and was conscious that he did it awkwardly.

"She eyed him coldly. "Kafan said I was going ashore and that you wanted to speak to me," she said in a level voice. "I did not know we were so near Singapore—nor does this look like Singapore to me."

"It is not," he answered. "It's a place called Kalawa."

"Her eyes swept the shoreline. "I have always understood from Kafan, though there was no reason why I should have believed him, that I was to be taken to Singapore."

"Yes," Bob Kingsley nodded. "That was my first intention, but—"

"But on second thought you decided it would be unwise," she interrupted caustically. "I wondered at it myself. I would have denounced you there at once to the police."

"I know it," he said—and smiled in an effort to break down her guard. "To be perfectly frank, that is one of the reasons why I am not taking you to Singapore."

"I will do the same thing here," she told him instantly.

"I know that, too," he was still smiling. "But Kalawa is a very small place, and there aren't any police here."

"She stared at him a moment, biting at her lip. "I see," she cried furiously. "Of course! But even in Kalawa I must tell my story if I were left free to do so, and even from Kalawa it would not take long for that story to spread. So I shall not of course be permitted to tell that story—where it would do you any harm. Who is to be my next jailer, then—in Kalawa?"

"There will be no jail or jailer," he said quietly. "You will be the guest of some old friends of mine for a little time."

"Friends! Of yours?" Her eyes blazed disdainfully. "And do you think I will go peacefully to these friends of yours?"

"I should have thought you would have welcomed any change, that would rid you of me," he returned, a sudden bitterness in his voice. "But perhaps you did not understand that I would not remain in Kalawa? As soon as I have put you ashore, I am going on with the Alita to Singapore."

"She did not answer. Bob Kingsley turned away for a moment. He was suddenly ill at ease. He did not like what he had to say and do next. She would make a scene, of course. And he would be more the blackguard, more the callous, cold-blooded brigand than ever in her eyes. Well, the sooner it was over the better. "Miss Lyle," he said gravely, "I—what I am going to ask from you now is, whether you believe it or not, for your own good. Before you leave the Alita you must give me that ivory god you've got."

Her hands clenched tightly at her sides. "Must?" she challenged through tight lips.

"Yes," he said. "I am afraid I have put it bluntly; that I have startled you."

"Oh, now far from that!" she retorted fiercely. "I have expected this all along. It is what you have been after all the time—the reason why you killed my brother. My only wonder has been that since the night on the beach when you asked for it, you have said nothing about it again until now. You perhaps had your reasons, but my answer is the same now as then. You shall not have it! There is no power on earth that can make me give it to you!"

"I remember your answer, and the reason you gave—that it would help to hang me," he said slowly; "but I had hoped that the respect with which you have been treated during the days you have been aboard here would have caused you to relent a little, and that you would have come to see things in a somewhat different light. For instance, you thought it was Richardson who tried to prevent my escape from Aoru, and who was trying to rescue you in that night at the cliff. You have talked a great deal with Kafan since then, and surely you must realize now that, instead of Richardson, it was the five Chinamen I told you about on the beach that night of the shipwreck who were after us, and after you specifically, on account of that ivory god. Kafan was on the Moutah, and he knew something of what happened there. He was in the boat with the Chinamen and myself on the way in from the ship, and it was Kafan whom I sent to find the Alita. He has told you all these things."

"Oh, yes," she answered unreluctantly. "Kafan has told me that—and a great deal more. He has made you out a veritable hero, and according to him, you have asked your life several times for me, but Kafan is your mouthpiece. I can hardly be expected to credit any tales that your men repeat to me like parrots, when I know well enough they emanate from you! I have never seen any of these mythical Chinamen. I did not see them outside my stateroom door when my brother was murdered—I saw only you. I did not see them on the beach when you landed. I did not see them when all of us, the survivors, in broad daylight, reached Aoru."

"I am sorry," he said simply. "Nevertheless it is only the truth. Your life wouldn't be worth a farthing with that idol in your possession if they could get their hands on you. That is why you were—shall we say? kidnapped in Aoru. That is another reason why you are not going to Singapore where you would be in danger; and, finally, that is one of the reasons why you are going to transfer it to me before you go ashore here at Kalawa. In other words," he smiled faintly—"for your own sake you are going to fade out of the picture."

She studied him for a moment, her head high, her hands still clenched. "Am I, indeed?" she exclaimed icily. "We will see! For that matter, how do you know I have still got the idol? I could have disposed of it in Aoru, or easily destroyed it in the ten days I have had since then."

Bob Kingsley shook his head. "The only person you could have given it to in Aoru was Richardson," he said quietly. "But you were ill that morning, and, according to what Kafan learned through scouting around the camp, Richardson, on his return to Aoru, immediately went off to the scene of the wreck. I doubt if you spoke a single word to Richardson. You have not destroyed it because—well, you have already told me why plainly enough. God help me, I know only too well your feelings toward me, and I know that you meant literally what you said. The last thing you would do would be to destroy it if you believed, as you do believe, that in any way it would help to bring me to account for your brother's murder. And, besides, what you said a moment ago—that no power on earth would make you give it to me—is practically an admission that you still have it."

"Yes," she lifted her shoulders defiantly. "Well, I might as well admit it fully, then. But what are you going to do about it?"

"If you refuse to give it to me," he replied. "I shall—"

"I do refuse!" she broke in violently. "I have already told you so. Can I make it any plainer? I will not—do you understand?—I will not give it to you!"

"Then, while you remain up here on deck with me," he said, "I shall first of all send below and have the cabin thoroughly searched."

For a moment she was silent, and as her eyes swept his face the blue of them seemed to darken as though in sudden apprehension. Her voice was low, with a little tremor in it, when she spoke again. "And if you do not find it there?"

The answer was one he was not anxious to put into words. Strange that where he would gladly have given his all to inspire faith and trust, he must ever and always inspire but a deeper hate and loathing, and appear the more despicable in her eyes. It was as though fate laughed and jeered and mocked at him.

"I fear the answer is obvious, isn't it?" he said. "If the ivory god is not in the cabin, it must be on your person; it could not be anywhere else, and there would be no sense else to search."

The color flushed into her cheeks. "Me!" she cried out. "You—you and your men would dare do that?" She shrank away from him, her hands clasped wildly at her breast. "You—you would—search me?"

"Yes—if you force me to do so," he answered steadily. "There is no other way. No matter how, and no matter why now, since you will not credit my reasons in any case, I am going to have that ivory god. But you need have no fear of what is evidently in your mind. If you must be searched, at least you will not be subjected to any more indignity than can be helped. I shall send ashore for a couple of native women."

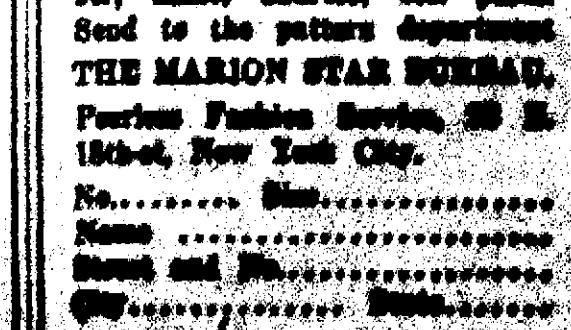

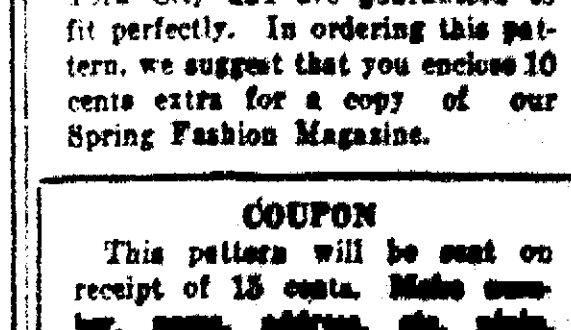

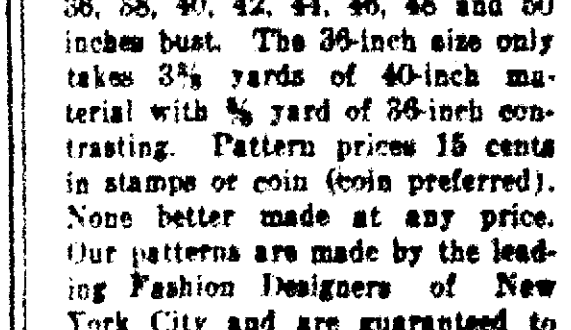

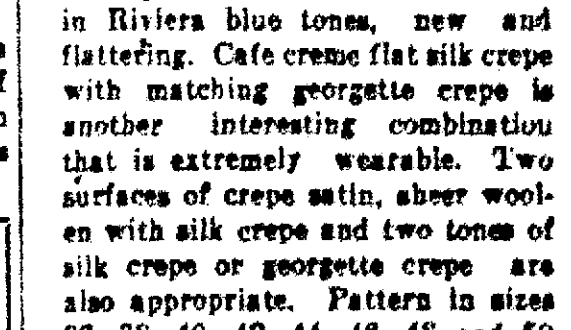

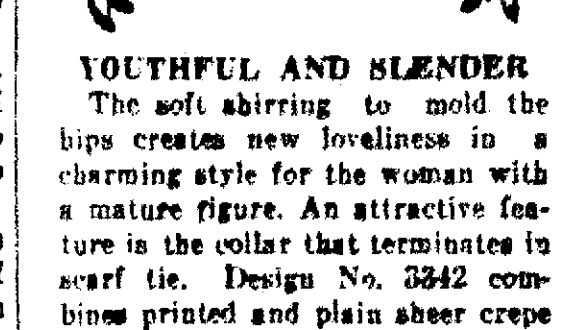

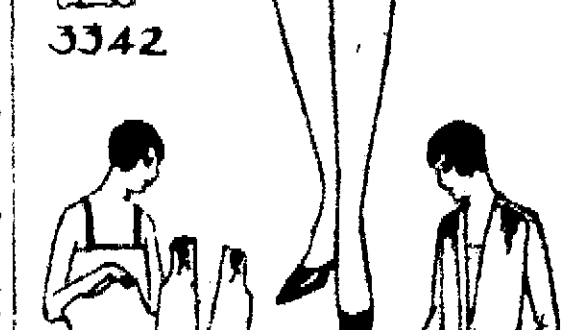

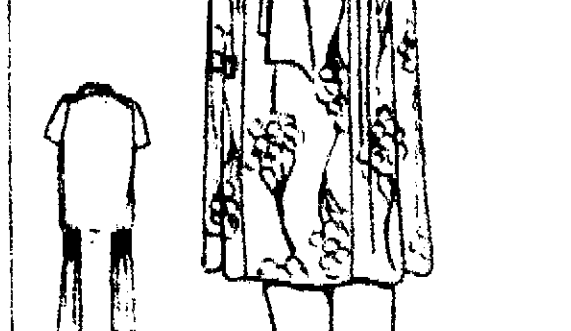

Instinctively, it seemed, her eyes went to the shore-line, and for a full minute she was silent—while the color, receding from her face, left it whiter than before.

"I did not give you credit for so much consideration," she said at last in a strained voice. "But even if the search is to be made by those of my own sex, I see that I am beaten—and yet not wholly beaten. This ivory god," she took it suddenly from the bodice of her dress—"is obviously, for some reason or other, of such enormous value to you that it has made of you—a murderer. I do not know what the secret of its worth is, what it represents that would cause you to sell your soul for its possession; but it is of enormous value to me, too—for quite another reason. You know what that reason is. But since I may not keep it," she laughed suddenly, a little hysterically—"then you shall not have it, either! And so—"

Jubilee's Pardner

A Story of Boyhood Adventure

BY JUDD M. LEWIS

TODAY was Tuesday, and it was warmer than yesterday. There is not any ice on the creek where we have let the water out of the pond, and the frost is about out of the ground over in the brickyard where they take out the clay for bricks, so that it is so soft it is soapy to walk on. The dogs ran around the muddy place barking and dusting each other to go in, and the bunch took off their shoes and stockings and waded in, and it wasn't so very soapy. It was more like butter. The girls came to my house and heard us hollering over in the brickyard and they came over there, and I was standing near the edge working my toes under the mud to see it move, and Jubilee asked me what I was doing, and I said Banty was under the mud and I was standing on his face. She said she didn't believe me, so I told her to watch me pull up my foot and if she looked right quick she could see his face, so she bent over and looked and I kicked up a foot full of mud that hit her in the face and spread out as wide as a pancake. She dug it out of her eyes and said she would get even with me sometime if she had to marry me to do it, and then she went straddling across the muddy street to my house.

We all watched from behind the woodpile and seen her go in, and then we skunk out for school before my mother could call me. She got to school before school called and whilst I was telling Jubilee goodbye, and she cried her eyes and looked at me and said, "You are going to get it when you get home," so when school let out I did not go home till I had to and when I

Love's Embers

A Sequel to "Revelations of a Wife"

BY ADOLPH GARRISON

Lillian Gela Noel Away
Lillian recovered the various trunks of our camp dinner. I distinctly saw a little ripple of disgust pass over Philip Vertigan's usually staid face. But whether it was caused by her mention of the primitive prepared dishes or by her unadmitted assumption that age was compelling him to watch his digestion, I did not know. Probably both, answered Mrs. Graham said and was later in the evening and would need it as an accompaniment.

"Well, it's a solo I want now, my dear," she returned. "I'm in a most romantic mood—it doesn't happen to me only once in five years or so, and I want to hear music straining out from somewhere far enough away that I can't locate the sound. Will you humor an old woman and take that sacred violin of yours up over the sand dune counter and play some of my old favorites for me? Remember, the old-fashioned things, and don't be strong."

"Why, I'd love to, Mrs. Underwood," the young violinist returned, while we all applauded her apparently spontaneous plan.

Ten minutes later there sounded the tremendous notes of that haunting old love song, whose refrain runs, "Tell her I love her so," and I wondered if that were one of Lillian's favorites, or if Noel and seized the opportunity to send a message to Mary.

Mental strains cannot be removed by time, nor washed away by any waters—Cicero.

For several minutes I pondered how I was to manipulate my human chess men so that I could accomplish my end without my employer's realizing what I was doing. At my first opportunity, and as a first move, I got a muttered word aside with Lillian.

"Keep young Jackson, Miss Lincoln and Mr. Vertigan in their present places," I said. "You can add Dicky to the collection if you wish, but he went in my mother was singing Boala Land and she smiled at me and said, "Feeble is a funny girl," I said, "She is too darn funny," and then my mother said that Feeble came to with her face full of mud and when my mother asked her if she fell down she said, "No, the ground flew up and hit me in the face." My mother thought that was funny. The female crook had had me scold for nothing all day.

Annabelle Lee was scowling all around in her scooter and she went in the parlor and pulled the parlor lamp over, and whilst my mother was running to see what had happened she scooted out and tipped over my father's smoking stand, and while my mother was sweeping up the ash she got hold of the table cloth and pulled a bag of dishes off on the floor, and finally my grandfather tied her scooter to a leg of the lounge, and then she picked a piece of newspaper off the lounge and had to be held up and bit in the back to make her give it up. I went out and sat on the steps with Jubilee so I couldn't be blamed for anything. The sky was clear and coolish when I went to bed. It was my father's fault I went when I did.

IF KIDNEYS BOTHER

TRY DOSE OF SALTS

Drink Quart of Water If Your Back Hurts or Bladder Troubles

No man or woman can make a mistake by flushing the kidneys occasionally, says a well-known authority. Too much rich food creates acids which clog the kidney pores so that they sluggishly filter or strain only part of the waste and poisons from the blood. Then you get sick. Rheumatism, headaches, liver trouble, nervousness, constipation, dizziness, sleeplessness, bladder disorders often come from sluggish kidneys.

The moment you feel a dull ache in the kidneys or your back hurts, or if the urine is cloudy, offensive, full of sediment, irregular of passage, or attended by a sensation of swelling, begin to drink soft water in quantities; also get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any reliable pharmacy and take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys may then act fine.

This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to help flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to activity, also to help neutralize the acids in the system so they no longer cause irritation, thus often relieving bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive and can not injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink, which anyone can take now and then to help keep the kidneys clean and the blood pure, thereby often preventing serious kidney complications. Ad.

To End Severe Cough Quickly, Try This

For real results, this old home-made remedy beats them all. Easily prepared.

You'll never know how quickly a cough can be conquered until you try this famous home-made remedy. The immediate relief given is almost like magic. It is easily prepared, and there is nothing better for coughs.

Into a pint bottle, put 2 1/2 ounces of Pinex; then add plain granulated sugar syrup to make a full pint. Or you can use clarified honey instead of sugar syrup. Either way, the full pint saves about two-thirds of the money usually spent for cough preparations, and gives you a more positive, effective remedy. It keeps perfectly, and tastes pleasant—children like it.

You can feel this take hold instantly, soothing and healing the membranes in all the air passages. It promptly loosens a dry, tight cough, and soon you will notice the phlegm thin out and disappear. A day's use will usually break up an ordinary throat or chest cold, and it is also splendid for bronchitis, hoarseness, and bronchial asthma.

Pinex is a most valuable concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract and palatable guaracoli, the most reliable remedy for throat and chest ailments.

To avoid disappointment, ask your druggist for "2 1/2 ounces of Pinex" with directions. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money promptly refunded. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

MR. WILLIAM THALL

"Konjola gave me the only real relief I ever got from stomach trouble and nervousness and I will always recommend this medicine to those who suffer," said Mr. William Thall, 913 East Fulton St., Columbus, Ohio.

"The food I ate would turn sour causing severe cramps that would nearly double me up. I suffered these pains after meals and during the night. Many times I wouldn't close an eye from the time I went to bed until I got up the next morning. At last I was so nervous and seemed to be trembling all the time."

"I took four bottles of Konjola and it completely banished all the stomach miseries I used to suffer and relieved me of the awful nervousness. Now I can eat anything I want and the dreadful cramping spells never come over me any more. Konjola built me up sufficiently to go back to work and I will always feel indebted to the makers of this great medicine."

Konjola is different than any other known remedy in this section. It contains twenty-two juices extracted from natural plants which invigorate the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels, to a more healthy action. The effect of Konjola on the entire system brings amazing relief in cases of suffering that had been going on for years. At the same time many weak and rundown systems have been restored to a new state of health through this compound. Such a vast number of men and women in this city have told of their experience with this new medical product until now Konjola is the most highly indorsed medicine that is known in this vicinity.

Konjola is strongly recommended here in Marion at Stump & Sams Pharmacy, and is also being sold by all the best druggists in all towns throughout this section.—Adv.

Fourth Case

The fourth case set for hearing is an action brought by Howard A. Stevens as executor of the last will and testament of Charles F. Ritter. Under original terms of the will, all property was bequeathed to the widow, Lulu M. Ritter for use during her lifetime. The widow elected to take an equivalent for her life estate and thus resulted in application to the court to interpret the will.

Since bringing the suit, Stevens has been sentenced to the penitentiary for alleged embezzlement of funds belonging to the estate and J. Farr Lurie is now serving as executor.

A Columbus property represents Stevens and John H. Clark is attorney for Lurie and the various heirs.

Acid Stomach

Excess acid is the common cause of indigestion. It results in pain and sourness about two hours after eating. The quick corrective is an alkali which neutralizes acid. The best corrective is Phillips' Milk of Magnesia. It has remained standard with physicians in the 50 years since its invention. One spoonful of Phillips' Milk of Magnesia neutralizes instantly many times its volume in acid. It is harmless and tasteless and its action is quick. You will never rely on crude methods, never continue to suffer, when you learn how quickly, how pleasantly this gentler method acts. Please let it show you now. Be sure to get the genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia prescribed by physicians for 50 years in correcting excess acids. 25c and 50c a bottle — any drugstore. "Milk of Magnesia" has been the U. S. A Symbol of Service

MORE than 600 of the 4,500 employees of the Hocking Valley Railway have been in the Company's service for twenty-five years or over. Twenty-six of these men have been with the Company for fifty years or more.

All of these veterans—veterans in loyalty and faithfulness of service—wear a service badge that is the symbol of their devotion to duty and pride in accomplishment.

It is largely to their fidelity of purpose and friendliness of spirit through the passing years that the Hocking Valley has achieved such splendid records in the efficiencies of operation which have placed it in the forefront of American railroads.

No mere mechanical attention to the job would have resulted in such sureness of growth—the labors of these men have been happily performed with the realization that they were engaged in a great public-serving enterprise.

And the public has responded with an interest and sympathy whose genuineness is proved on many occasions.

New Strike of 350,000 Union Miners Threatened on April 1

WOULD AFFECT TWELVE STATES

Union Officials Say All Efforts To Negotiate Settlement Have Failed

Washington, Feb. 23.—A new strike of 350,000 union miners in 12 states is threatened on April 1, United Mine Workers officials reported today to the special Senate Coal Committee.

After nearly a week's investigation in Pennsylvania fields, the committee, headed by Senator Gooding, Republican of Idaho, returned to Washington today to prepare a report for the Senate Interstate Commerce Committee.

States which will be affected by the threatened walk-out include Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Oklahoma, Missouri, Kansas, Wyoming, Washington, Montana, Texas, Ohio and northern West Virginia. In these sections some union operators have been working under temporary wage agreements. All efforts thus far to negotiate a settlement have failed, union officials declared.

135,000 New on Strike

At the present time about 135,000 men are on strike.

The committee collected about 300 pages of testimony on its trip. Instead of a written report, the sub-committee will relate orally to the full committee its experiences in the mine camps. A meeting was called for Thursday. The general investigation by the full committee probably will get under way next week.

In the committee's opinion some legislative remedy must be found to relieve the present strike conditions or prevent their recurrence. The committee will present to other industries, including the railroads, and affect thousands of persons. No program has been mapped out but a bill calling for federal supervision of the coal industry will be presented by one or two of the committee members. Senator Wheeler, Democrat of Montana, already has introduced a bill to nationalize the mines.

The greatest ill of the industry, the committee believes, is overproduction and an oversupply of miners.

Annals Injunction Use

The committee was strong in its denunciation of the alleged misuse of injunctions in labor disputes. Senator Gooding characterized as "outrageous" the injunction which forbids striking miners to congregate in the little church yard at Rossiter, Pa., to sing hymns. The Senate Judiciary Committee is now holding hearings on the Shipstead bill to curb the injunctive power of the federal courts.

Activities of alleged communists among striking coal miners aroused Senator Gooding.

"We must get the I. W. W. by the throat and choke it to death," he declared. "If we don't the gutters of our streets will run knee deep with blood. The industrial leaders of the country should fight this menace."

Miners on Hand

Philip Murray, vice president of the mine workers, told the committee "the communists believe they can dominate the American labor movement if they can get control of the United Mine Workers, the largest single union in the country."

"The hope of our miners reposes in the American flag," he added. "The committee's investigation has given the striking miners renewed hope in their movement."

Murray, John L. Lewis, president, and other miners' officials came here for the investigation. They will present their side first, and the committee then will turn its investigation to West Virginia, Kentucky and Ohio conditions.

BRUMBY ACQUITTED

Supplementary Investigation Ordered by Wilbur, Soon To Be Reported

Washington, Feb. 23.—Rear Admiral Frank H. Brumby, who was rigorously criticized in the first report of the naval board of inquiry on the S-4 disaster, has been acquitted by the supplementary investigation ordered last week by Secretary Wilbur.

The second report of the naval court, which has concluded its job of setting forth "completely and with particularity" the reasons for its general findings, probably will be published in a week or 10 days, following review by the secretary and the judge advocate general.

Although the reconvened court confirmed its original conclusions that the commanders of both the S-4 and the coast guard destroyer Paulding were equally responsible for the disaster, the statement of the Navy Bureau of Navigation that the "major presumptive responsibility" for the crash rested with the S-4 because of the relatively higher visibility under the existing weather conditions.

Washington, Feb. 23.—The secret of why J. J. Hourahan, of Edinburg, N. C., killed himself probably will be buried with him.

Whether he was emotionally overcome with the haunting melody of Liszt's "Rhapsody" or whether there were other reasons probably never will be learned.

Hourahan stabbed himself five times with a pocket knife last night in Keith's Theater, while the audience sat enthralled with the strains of the Rhapsody.

RENEW TREATY TALK

Kellogg's Reply to France Received and Read to Cabinet

Paris, Feb. 23.—After a long lapse due to the Pan-American Conference the diplomatic conversations between the United States and France regarding a treaty outlawing war were resumed today.

Secretary of State Kellogg's reply to the French note of Jan. 21 was received by the French foreign office this morning and was immediately considered by the cabinet.

The minister's statement, which was issued following the cabinet meeting, follows:

"I received Secretary Kellogg's reply this morning and read it to the members of the cabinet. Its tone is very conciliatory, but there still remains a slight misunderstanding in phraseology. The governments probably will authorize publication simultaneously in America and France tomorrow."

Life often presents us with a choice of evils, rather than of goods.—C. O. Colton.

LEGAL NOTICE

Notice is hereby given that sealed proposals will be received at the office of the Board of Trustees of Salt Rock Township, Marion County, Ohio, at the Morris Banking Company bank in Morral, Ohio, until Thursday, March 1, 1936, at one o'clock p. m., eastern standard time, for the furnishing of all the material and performing all of the labor required for the construction of the following described improvement in accordance with the surveys, plans, profiles, cross sections, estimates and specifications therefor now on file with the Board of Trustees of Salt Rock Township, Marion County, Ohio, namely: The Conley-Thompson, Meeker-Upper Sandusky, Marcellus-Gallatin road improvement in Salt Rock Township, Marion County, Ohio, said improvement being about seven miles in length, and the estimated cost being $27,500.44, all as shown by the estimate of C. R. Leaven, County Surveyor, now on file with said Board of Trustees. Bids for the commencement of the work is July 1st, 1936; date for the completion of the work is Oct. 1st, 1936. Bidders are requested to be present at the above named time and place where all proposals will be publicly opened, read and examined and an award made at that time, or at such time to which consideration of said bids may be duly adjourned as provided by law. Each bid must be accompanied by cash or a certified check on some solvent bank in an amount equal to five per cent of the estimated cost of the improvement, made payable to the order of the Board of Trustees of Salt Rock Township, Marion County, Ohio, for the benefit of said township, which will be forfeited by the successful bidder in case he fails to enter into a contract and bond within five days from the date of the award of the contract. The successful bidder will be required to give bond in an amount equal to one-half of the estimated cost of the improvement, with sureties satisfactory to said Board, for the proper construction and completion of the work. Each bid must contain the full name of every person or company interested in the same, and must be enclosed in an envelope with the name of the bidder thereon and sealed before delivery. No bid will be received that exceeds the estimated cost of the improvement, and the contract for said work will be let to the lowest and best bidder. The trustees retain the right to reject any and all bids.

72—NOT SO OLD!

At Least, That's Expression of Secretary of the Treasury Mellon

Washington, Feb. 23.—A man is not so old at 72.

One of the administrations "young men"—Secretary of the Treasury Mellon, who next month will celebrate his seventy-third birthday, made this remark today. He was commenting on the fact that the Senate is holding up confirmation of Representative Green, Republican of Iowa, as a member of court of claims because he is two years over the 70 year retirement age for judges.

"Seventy-two is not very old," Mellon said.

Dull—Unfit

Watch a sparkling drink change things in an hour

Often men and women rise in the morning feeling dull and unfit, because the system is clogged. The poisons and wastes depress them.

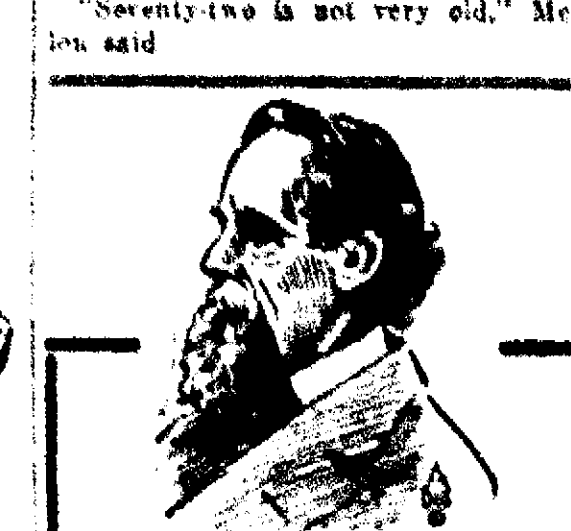

There are long and short ways to a remedy, but the shortest and pleasantest is this:

Drink a glass of water on rising, either hot or cold. Add a little "Epsom-salt." It will make a sparkling, pleasant drink, that will flush the intestines. Note the radical change in an hour.

The results come from acids derived from lemon and grapes. And they are at your command every hour of the day.

Learn what "Epsom-salt" means to you. It may save you countless hours of depression. All druggists supply "Epsom-salt" at small cost.—Adv.

A Half Century of Service
1878 Cuticura 1928
Soap and Ointment
Announce their Golden Anniversary

FOR 50 years the name Cuticura has stood for all that is best in Toilet Preparations for cleansing, purifying and beautifying the Skin, Scalp and Hair.

First manufactured and distributed in the United States, they are now known and used throughout the world, ever-growing demand necessitating the establishment of additional laboratories for their manufacture in Canada, England and Australia.

Originated in 1878, the Cuticura Preparations have been able, through their wonderfully effective super-creamy emollient qualities, to meet the constantly changing demands of successive generations, and are today held in highest esteem for all the needs of the daintiest of modern toilets.

The Cuticura Preparations consist of:

Cuticura Soap Cuticura Ointment
Cuticura Talcum Cuticura Shaving Stick

Each is a highly developed product, with the Medicinal, soothing and healing properties of Cuticura, so delicately and delightfully blended that they are unique in Toilet Requisites.

GALION GIRLS GO TO SERVICES IN BODY

High School Reserves Attend Rites at First Lutheran Church

Galion, Feb. 28—"The Young Lady" was the title of the sermon Rev. O. C. Kramer used in addressing members of the High School Girl Reserves at the services at First Lutheran Church Sunday morning. Members attended in a body and were accompanied by their faculty advisers. Last night Reverend Kramer preached on the text, "Will Ye Go Away?"

"The Man Who Forgot" proved an interesting sermon, to members of the Peace Lutheran Church, as given by Rev. Philip Auer, Rev. R. E. Porter at the First Presbyterian Church and "The Church of the Glorious Fruitage" and last night the boys of the congregation had charge and the topic for discussion was "A Boy's Holy Ambition." Rev. J. S. Stowell of Philadelphia, a representative of the Methodist Home Mission Board, delivered the sermon yesterday morning at the First Methodist Church and last night an open meeting was held with Rev. Stephen answering laymen's questions.

"God's Revelation of Love" and "Jesus at Prayer" were the sermon subjects used by Rev. George Zinn at the First Reformed Church. The vested choir presented special music at the morning worship and last night Miss Isabelle Bagley sang a soprano solo as a special feature. Plans are being made for the Evangelical institute of ministers and delegates from Central Ohio classes which will be held at the local church Tuesday. Reverend Huber, Rev. Frank Zartman, Rev. R. Z. Miller, Rev. J. D. Evans, Rev. R. C. Windhurst, Rev. Giller, Wernerke, Rev. H. F. Weckmuller, Rev. L. Pledierphahn, Rev. G. W. Wood and Rev. T. W. Horneman will give special addresses at the three sessions.

At the First Baptist Church Rev. E. C. Thompson gave two interesting and unusual sermons, "Reading the Compass on the Highway of Life" and "From Satan to Student—From Student to Satan."

Histories are more full of examples of the fidelity of dogs than of friends—Pope.

What mother would give her ten-year-old daughter a drink of whiskey for a cold? Then don't drug your children when their bowels are out of order!

Investigate the remarkable properties of fig syrup, mother! It is a purely vegetable product that leads a boy or girl out of constipation, and away from all need of cathartics. California Fig Syrup is, in fact, a most marvelous body-builder. A wan, pale girl whose organs are quickened by this delicious, fruit syrup will amaze you by her easier study and harder play—in only a couple of weeks! Or your boy will start to fill-out and take on heightened color in the same time! And a million mothers know what a few drops of fig syrup do for an ailing infant.

California Fig Syrup is utterly harmless, of course. The one need for caution is to get the real California product. Say "California" and get the genuine; the genuine bottle is only sixty cents at all dealers. So it isn't expensive!

Try California Fig Syrup two weeks on any child, and let his altered appearance and actions tell the full story!

O. S. U. GLEE CLUB TO APPEAR IN MARION

Group Will Sing Here as Additional Number on Lecture Course Schedule

Appearance of the Ohio State University Glee Club at the Star Auditorium April 6 as an additional number of Harding High School's senior lecture course program for the year, will be complimentary to ticket holders, it was announced by E. H. Marshall, school principal, today.

Effort is made by the seniors each year as the course grows in interest and financial support, to present more numerous and worth while programs. Unusual success of this year's course has made possible the additional number.

The club is comprised of about 42 voices and will bring its own instrumental accompaniment. Charles Schoenberger, son of Mr. and Mrs. David Schoenberger, 8 Prospect-st., is a manager of the club.

Presentation will be made here after a six-day tour of Ohio and Pennsylvania during State's spring vacation, and upon completion of the present engagement in a Columbus theater. Concluding number of the scheduled entertainment course will be the lecture by Dr. S. Parkes Cadman, pastor of Central Congregational Church, Brooklyn, N. Y., and an outstanding speaker, to be given at Star Auditorium May 2.

O. S. U. MAY INCREASE MATRICULATION FEE

Boost Planned To Cover Expenses of Student Senate, Governing Body

Marion Star Bureau
Ohio State University
Columbus, Feb. 28—An increase in the matriculation fee for students at Ohio State University to cover the expenses of the Student Senate, the undergraduate governing body, may take place before the fall term of 1928 opens in September.

A favorable reaction on the plan to make an addition of $1 to the university fee for the benefit of the student legislative body has been given by President George W. Rightmire, and the proposal is now awaiting the final decision of the Board of Trustees.

The regulation fee for a resident of Ohio at the present time is $21 for each quarter term of school. One dollar of the sum is budgeted for the upkeep of the Ohio Union. The fee for students not living in the state amounts to $40. An addition of $5 to the matriculation fee was made last fall by the university Board of Trustees.

THREE ENLIST HERE FOR NAVY SERVICE

Harry M. Jones, John S. Mason and John W. Stutz Sent to Great Lakes

Three young men from Marion and vicinity have enlisted for service in the United States Navy, according to an announcement made today by Chief Purser Capt. John B. Shanks, who is in charge of the local recruit station in the American Legion "Dugout" on S. High-st.

All have been sent to the naval training station at Great Lakes, Ill.

The three are Harry M. Jones, 271 Patton-st.; John S. Mason, 104 Erie-st.; and John W. Stutz, R. F. D. No. 4, Marion. The latter recently completed an army enlistment, finishing his period of service with the 10th Infantry Guard Detachment stationed here as an honorary military guard at the tomb of the late President and Mrs. Warren G. Harding.

The three men have made application to enter one of the navy's trade schools.

After eight weeks spent at Great Lakes the three men will be given a short furlough preliminary to entering one of the trade schools or going aboard a ship for actual naval training.

Asserts Hendershot Started Out to Devise New Type of Compass for Fliers

PPITTSBURGH, Feb. 26—Lester J. Hendershot, West Elizabeth inventor who started the motor industry with the announcement of his electromagnetic engine, really started out to devise a new type of compass. D. Barr Peet, his partner, told International News Service.

Hendershot discovered by cutting the magnetic lines of force he could develop a rotary motion of a pre-magnetized core. This motion could be stabilized in the manner the motor was built, thus constructing an engine with a predetermined number of revolutions per minute.

"A constant speed motor is one of the greatest needs of aviation," said Peet. "This motor can be built to any speed desired, and will last indefinitely. The motor Hendershot demonstrated in Detroit was constructed to turn over 1,800 revolutions per minute, and developed 45 horse power on a block test."

Peet was emphatic in his denial that there was any radio phenomena connected with the motor. It generates no heat, he explained, and could only be utilized as electrical current if attached to a motor generator.

The partner explained that Hendershot originally was seeking to devise a compass that would be more reliable than the present ones used by aviators. He was trying to improve upon the magnetic induction compass that indicates the true north.

"Hendershot found that with a pre-magnetized core, he could set up a magnetized field that would indicate the true north, but after he found this, he could find no way of utilizing it in the compass he had set out to devise," said Peet.

THREE ENLIST HERE FOR NAVY SERVICE

Harry M. Jones, John S. Mason and John W. Stutz Sent to Great Lakes

Three young men from Marion and vicinity have enlisted for service in the United States Navy, according to an announcement made today by Chief Purser Capt. John B. Shanks, who is in charge of the local recruit station in the American Legion "Dugout" on S. High-st.

All have been sent to the naval training station at Great Lakes, Ill.

The three are Harry M. Jones, 271 Patton-st.; John S. Mason, 104 Erie-st.; and John W. Stutz, R. F. D. No. 4, Marion. The latter recently completed an army enlistment, finishing his period of service with the 10th Infantry Guard Detachment stationed here as an honorary military guard at the tomb of the late President and Mrs. Warren G. Harding.

The three men have made application to enter one of the navy's trade schools.

After eight weeks spent at Great Lakes the three men will be given a short furlough preliminary to entering one of the trade schools or going aboard a ship for actual naval training.

"A constant speed motor is one of the greatest needs of aviation," said Peet. "This motor can be built to any speed desired, and will last indefinitely. The motor Hendershot demonstrated in Detroit was constructed to turn over 1,800 revolutions per minute, and developed 45 horse power on a block test."

Peet was emphatic in his denial that there was any radio phenomena connected with the motor. It generates no heat, he explained, and could only be utilized as electrical current if attached to a motor generator.

The partner explained that Hendershot originally was seeking to devise a compass that would be more reliable than the present ones used by aviators. He was trying to improve upon the magnetic induction compass that indicates the true north.

"Hendershot found that with a pre-magnetized core, he could set up a magnetized field that would indicate the true north, but after he found this, he could find no way of utilizing it in the compass he had set out to devise," said Peet.

Asserts Hendershot Started Out to Devise New Type of Compass for Fliers

PPITTSBURGH, Feb. 26—Lester J. Hendershot, West Elizabeth inventor who started the motor industry with the announcement of his electromagnetic engine, really started out to devise a new type of compass. D. Barr Peet, his partner, told International News Service.

Hendershot discovered by cutting the magnetic lines of force he could develop a rotary motion of a pre-magnetized core. This motion could be stabilized in the manner the motor was built, thus constructing an engine with a predetermined number of revolutions per minute.

"A constant speed motor is one of the greatest needs of aviation," said Peet. "This motor can be built to any speed desired, and will last indefinitely. The motor Hendershot demonstrated in Detroit was constructed to turn over 1,800 revolutions per minute, and developed 45 horse power on a block test."

UNUSUAL PROGRAM IS PRESENTED AT DINNER

First Presbyterian Church Choir Provides Entertainment at Men's Banquet

A entertainment program out of the ordinary featured the annual guest dinner of the Men's Bible Class of the First Presbyterian Church, held last night with 125 members of the class and guests in attendance.

Members of the church choir, who were guests of honor for the occasion, contributed the main portion of the program, which included chorus, quartet and solo numbers arranged by the director, Charles Collier.

Mr. Collier's explanatory remarks preceding each number, in which he outlined a brief history of the selection and its origin provided an exceptionally interesting and unique part of the entertainment.

Held in Basement
Dinner was served at 6:00 o'clock by women of the Westminster Class of the Sunday School with Mrs. J. W. Hunsate in charge of arrangements. The entertainment program began at 7:45 o'clock and continued until 9 o'clock. Both the dinner and program took place in the basement of the church.

Proceeding the entertainment, reports were made on the progress of a membership enrollment and attendance contest now being conducted by the Men's Bible Class with unusual success.

The contest, in which the class is divided into 10 teams competing in an "automobile race" across the country, has resulted thus far in enrollment of 40 new members. This has been accomplished since the start of the race on Jan. 1. Average attendance has also been more than doubled. In December before the contest got under way, attendance averaged 45 and this month it has been increased to 78.

Race Explained
The race was explained in a talk given by J. W. Hunsate, one of the three directors of the contest.

Captains of the 10 teams are listed as drivers of well-known makes of automobiles. These captains, and the order in which they stand in the race at this time, are Ralph G. Williams, H. F. Stock, Berlin Ferguson, E. L. Goetting, Fred Williams, W. O. Phillips, O. F. Davison, J. W. Soos, C. H. Bauer and T. M. Cunningham.

Choir Program
The program given of the choir last night was as follows:
"Pilgrimage Chorus" from the opera "Faust" by the choir; vocal solo, "Coming Home," and "Over the Meadows," Mrs. W. O. Wilkins; quartet, "Deep River," and "Goin' Home," choir; vocal solo, "In the Dark on the Dew" and "The Mystery," Miss Margaret Brickman; quartet number, "I'd Like to Go Down South Once More," Miss Margaret Brickman, Miss Ruth Henderson, Harwood Taylor and V. C. Smith; "Faith of Our Fathers," sung by the quartet with audience joining in the chorus; "May Come Laughing," choir.

Piano accompaniments were played by Mrs. Harry Williams, First Presbyterian Church organist.
During the early part of the evening, a program was furnished by L. B. McNeil's orchestra.

J. B. Bray, president of the class, had charge of the program and gave the introductory talk. Martin Vaburg, the teacher, assisted and announced the various program features.

NOTICE TO DEBENTURE
(Place of Residence, unknown.)
In the Common Pleas Court, Marion County, Ohio, Plaintiff,
The Realty Loan Company, Plaintiff, vs.
Howard A. Stevens et al., Defendants.

The Edward T. Kelly Company, whose place of residence is unknown, will take notice that on the 27th day of September, 1927, The Realty Loan Company filed its petition in the Common Pleas Court of Marion County, Ohio, being Case No. 19,350, and on the 6th day of February, 1928, filed its Supplemental and Amended Petition therein, praying among other things for the foreclosure of a mortgage and marshaling of liens on the following real estate:

"Situations in the County of Marion, in the State of Ohio, and in the City of Marion, and being Lot 101, part of the south side of Lot number 2561 in T. P. Wallace's Sub-division to the City of Marion, Ohio."

Said The Edward T. Kelly Company has or claims to have a lien against said premises by way of judgment thereon, and it is further prayed in said petition and supplemental and amended petition that said The Realty Loan Company be required to bar said liens by the payment of said claims according to their said priorities.

Said The Edward T. Kelly Company is required to answer on or before the 21st day of April, 1928, or judgment will be taken accordingly.

THE REALTY LOAN COMPANY, Plaintiff.

Gen. T. Gern, Attorney,
Feb. 21, 28, Mich. 6, 13, 20, 27.

NOTICE
Notice is hereby given that on the sixth day of February, A. D. 1928, James E. Messenger, William H. Pace, William Jaymude, Ralph Good, John C. Cheney, George Lashley, Arthur Leonhart, Benjamin U. Witteraur and J. A. Ingle, as Trustees of Wesley Methodist Episcopal Church of Marion, Ohio, a religious society, unincorporated, filed their petition in the Court of Common Pleas of Marion County, Ohio, being Case No. 20,166, praying said Court for authority to incumber the following described real estate:

"Situations in the County of Marion, in the State of Ohio, and in the City of Marion and being Lots Numbered Thirty-one hundred and ninety-eight (3198) and Thirty-one hundred and ninety-nine (3199) in Gallaher's Addition to the City of Marion, Ohio," with a mortgage to secure a loan of $30,000.00 upon such terms as to the Court may seem reasonable, to enable the petitioners as said trustees to hold said real estate for the benefit of its members. Said petition will be for hearing on and after the 12th day of March, A. D. 1928.

James E. Messenger, William H. Pace, William Jaymude, Ralph Good, John C. Cheney, George Lashley, Arthur Leonhart, Benjamin U. Witteraur and J. A. Ingle, as Trustees of the Wesley Methodist Episcopal Church of Marion, Ohio.

COUNTY TAX FIGURES

APPROVED BY STATE

Plans for Distributing Funds to Various Subdivisions Now Under Way

Marion County's semi-annual tax settlement figures were officially approved at the state auditor's office yesterday and preparations for distribution of the tax money to the various subdivisions are now under way at the office of County Auditor Earl E. Thomas.

Checks will be ready for delivery on March 1, the auditor said today. These will go to the state, county, municipalities, townships and school districts, apportionments being based on the levies made for these subdivisions.

The tax settlement tabulation was submitted to the state auditor yesterday by Miss Edith Ebling, deputy in the county auditor's office.

Film Manager's Wife Sum Jackie's Mother for $750,000

Los Angeles, Feb. 28—Two suits on file in Superior Court here today have occasioned a sensational stir in the movie colony.

Claiming $750,000 in damages, Mrs. Corabel Bernstein brought action against Mrs. Lillian Coogan, mother of Jackie Coogan, juvenile star, alleging alienation of the affections of her husband, Arthur Bernstein, business manager of the Jackie Coogan Picture Corporation.

At the same time, Mrs. Bernstein, through her attorney, Charles W. Cradock, filed suit against her husband for divorce, charging him with indecent friendship with Mrs. Coogan and cruelty toward herself.

The divorce complaint states that Bernstein's salary is $3,000 a week and has community property totaling $250,000. It asks $1,000 alimony per month and $10,000 in attorneys' fees.

300 Legionnaires To Invade Kenton for District Rally

SECOND ANNUAL MEET IN CITY

Many State Notables Will Follow Dinner

Kenton, Feb. 26.—Legionnaires, 300 of them, will invade this city on Wednesday night for the second annual district banquet and rally to be held in the Elks home under the auspices of the Kenton Legion Post No. 104.

Practically all plans for the gathering have now been completed by the long list of committees under the general direction of Kenneth "Pat" Young, post commander.

While many of the ex-service men are coming from Kenton and its environs, more than 175 reservations have been secured by members of posts in Lima, Marion, Ada, Mt. Victory, Belle Center, LaRue, Bucyrus, Upper Sandusky, Findlay, Bowling Green, Fremont, Toledo, Columbus and Chillicothe.

Headed by the list of visiting notables will be George E. Denney, Middleton, state commander of the legion. Others will include J. J. Salsky, state executive, Judge Edward S. Matthews, state commander of the United Spanish War Veterans; Frazier Reams, Toledo, Northwest District legion commander; Milo Warner, Toledo, member of the National Legion executive committee and past state commander; Chauncey B. Baker, Columbus; Major Edward B. Edwards, member of the Ohio National guard now engaged in special observation work in the Southern Ohio mining district; Lewis Leager, Chillicothe, and R. T. Caville, Celina, committeemen.

Veterans of the Civil War have been invited to the banquet and meeting as honored guests while members of the U. S. W. V. have also been asked to attend.

Carl W. Smith, past commander of Kenton post, will serve as toastmaster during the program of addresses, entertainment and movies.

The banquet dinner will be served at 7 o'clock. The program following is to include brief talks by the visiting Legion officials, entertainment by a group of Ohio Northern University men under the personal direction of Mike Masulla, prominent band director, and a group of musicians from Bowling Green, and moving pictures of the national legion convention held last year in Paris.

TO ACT AS HOST

Haberman Chevrolet Co. Will Entertain Employees and Their Families

The Haberman Chevrolet Co. will be hosts to the members of the organization and their wives, at a banquet to be held at the Hotel Harding Thursday night at 7:30 o'clock. Covers will be laid for 75. Jack Pugh, sales manager of the organization, will act as general chairman and toastmaster for the evening.

Talks will be made by Fred Haberman, Jr., president of the Haberman Chevrolet Co., R. W. Robbins, a representative of the Chevrolet Co.; George M. Asper, new service manager; and Parker Kerr, used car manager.

The banquet is being given by the company as a mark of appreciation for the sales record made during the past two months which members of the company surpassed all previous records of the firm.

PERMIT GRANTED TO CONSTRUCT SEWERS

Max Yarrington To Build Storm and Sanitary Trunks on Homer-st

Permission to construct a storm water and sanitary sewer in Homer-st from Church-st to lot No. 9708 was granted to Max Yarrington by City Council at its meeting last night. The resolution granting the permission provided that an eight inch sanitary and 12 inch storm water sewer be installed and that the work must be done according to plans submitted by the city engineer. Yarrington will also be required to deposit a bond of $100 to assure the construction of the sewer according to the engineer's plans.

Council also passed a resolution authorizing the city auditor to divide the money in the general fund into the various department funds. Under a law recently passed it is now necessary to obtain permission of the State Department of Inspection and Supervision before the money received from the budget commission can be divided into the various funds.

A resolution authorizing the placing of a street light on S. State-st at the first alley south of Columbia, was also passed by city council.

ASKS COUNCIL TO KEEP ALLEY CLEARED

Dr. A. M. Crane Seeks Aid of City in Dispute Over Driveway

Aid of City Council in keeping the alley between Cherry-st and Girard-st and between Locust and Belmont-st, free from rubbish and open for traffic, was asked by Dr. A. M. Crane, 681 Girard-st, at the meeting of that body last night.

He told council that the alley was the only crossing between Cherry-st and Girard-st and that it was used extensively by motorists. Recently, he said, persons living in the vicinity have been dumping ashes into the alley and in one case drove an iron snake into the ground several feet from the alley line.

Council also authorized the city auditor to draw the proper legislation for vacating a portion of Erie-st and two alleys in the vicinity of Erie-st that was petitioned for by property owners in the vicinity at the last meeting of council. The petition was returned last night marked with the approval of the street and alley committee.

SEARCH DENSE WOOD FOR WOMAN SLAYER

Man, Answering to Murderer's Description, Seen by Superintendent of Estate

Somerville, N. J., Feb. 26.—A hundred policemen and civilians today plunged into the dense wood back of the Richard Lindbergh estate on Bernardsville Road in pursuit of a man seen to enter the thickets and known to answer the description of the slayer of Margaret Brown.

The man was seen to enter the wood by Elmer Trimmer, superintendent of the Lindbergh estate. He carried a bundle of newspapers and looked about him in a furtive, hunted manner. The same man was seen to enter the wood yesterday morning Grimmer said, but he made no report to the police at the time.

MAN BURNED WHEN GASOLINE EXPLODES

Damage To Reach $4,000 in Blaze at Farm Near Here

H. O. Selter, living five miles south of this city on the Richmond-pk., received burns to his right hand and the right side of his face and property, including a tractor and a large feed grinder, valued at between $3,000 and $4,000 was destroyed when a can of gasoline exploded setting fire to a tool shed early last night. The loss is covered by insurance. It was stated at the Selter home this morning.

The explosion was caused by a lighted lantern which Mr. Selter had used while filling the gasoline tank of a tractor which had been placed in the tool shed. The lantern had been placed on the ground four or five feet from the gasoline cans, however, and not close enough, it was thought by Mr. Selter, to cause an explosion.

He had filled the tractor tank and had placed the small can which he had used, on the floor near a larger tank from which he had taken the gasoline when the explosion took place. The burning liquid was scattered about the interior of the building and in a few minutes the entire structure was a mass of flames.

Neighbors and passing motorists attracted by the flames formed a bucket brigade and by heroic efforts, saved a large frame barn which stood about 40 feet from the tool shed. The tool shed, a two story frame building, was completely destroyed with all its contents, including the tractor, a large grinding machine and a number of pieces of smaller farm machinery. Two hundred bushels of oats which had been stored on the second floor of the building, were also destroyed.

SEVEN REPUBLICS TO OPERATE AIR LINES

Spell of Lindbergh's Good Will Flight Grips People of South

Washington, Feb. 26.—The spell of the "Lone Eagle" of the Atlantic has gripped the republics of the Caribbean and Central America.

As a direct result of Colonel Lindbergh's good will tour of Latin America, commercial interests of seven republics, backed by American capital and technical advice, are preparing to extend a network of commercial air lines from Key West, Fla., to the Panama Canal.

Cuba already has begun a survey for a national air mail service extending from tip to tip of the 900-mile island.

Porto Rico, Haiti and Cuba have consented to support an inter-island passenger and mail service over a 900 mile route.

The inter-island route would connect with the all-Cuban mail route at Santiago, and the all-Cuban would connect with the Havana-Key West line at Havana, thus bringing the two new lines into direct contact with the United States.

Panama has expressed a sympathetic interest in a project to connect the Caribbean island route with Panama City, which would connect North and South America by air for the first time in history. Service already exists between Panama and Colombia, and between Panama and the principal east and west coast cities of all South America.

BARBER FEDERATION HEAD WILL APPEAR

Local Union Plans Meet in Marion; To Open Membership Drive

George McKenna, Springfield, state president of the Barbers' Federation, will be the speaker at a meeting sponsored by members of Local No. 554, Journeymen Barbers, International Union of America, in the near future, according to plans made at a meeting of members of the local last night at their hall, W. Center-st. It also is planned to bring a number of other speakers of national reputation to the city in the near future.

Arrangements were completed for the opening of the membership drive and during the business session three candidates were initiated and two applications received. The following members were appointed to cooperate with the international officers: Stephen Hart, J. Cordray, Miller Schalk, George Hachten and A. R. Yochum.

MOTHER ENTERTAINS IN HONOR OF SON

Prospect, Feb. 26.—Mrs. Edward Lauer entertained in honor of her son J. Fred, who recently celebrated his sixth birthday. The time was spent with games. The house and table decorations were in red, white and blue. Lunch was served by the hostess.

Favors were hatchets for the boys, and red, white and blue corsages for the girls. The guests were Naomi Gast, Mary Keller, Irma Louise Drake, Lucile Mueck, Thelma Mae Marshall, Junior Gast, Gene Griffith, Evan Evans, John Lauer, Samuel Lauer and Robby Reynolds.

MRS. CHESTER POMMERT ENTERTAINS EUCHE CLUB

Caledonia, Feb. 26.—Mrs. Chester Pommert entertained members of the euchre club at her home. A patriotic color scheme was used as a decorative note in the luncheon which followed a season of cards. Mrs. Glenn Allen was presented awards for high score and Mrs. Roy Garver award for second high score in euchre while Mrs. Harold Williams received the consolation awards. Mrs. Rupert Koch and Mrs. Charles Kaehler were guests. The next club meeting will be in two weeks with Mrs. Jay Ush as hostess.

Morrow County Claims Youngest J. P. In State

Special to The Star
CARDINGTON, Feb. 26.—As Cincinnati was called from the plow and drafted into the service of his beloved home, so Raymond Bowers, of Fulton, near here, has been called from his lathe and asked to give a part of his time to the promotion of the public welfare.

Last November Bowers was elected Justice of the Peace of Lincoln Township of Morrow County and claims the distinction of being the youngest Justice in the state of Ohio, if not the United States. The young J. P. celebrated his twenty-second birthday anniversary on the seventeenth day of this month. He was born Feb. 17, 1906.

Unlike the small boy who aspired to pull the throttle on the fastest locomotive, Bowers had no desire to enter the field of jurisprudence. He was elected by popular acclaim. The voters of the township wrote his name on the ballot on election day.

The residents of Lincoln Township being peaceful and law abiding citizens, the young Justice isn't required to give much of his time to settling disputes and the usual difficulties that usually come before a Justice of the Peace. As a regular occupation he works as a machinist in the Hydraulic Power Manufacturing Co. plant at Mt. Gilead.

Bower is married. Mrs. Bower being the former Isabel Kinsman.

MAN BOUND OVER

Harold Temple Charged with Selling Mortgaged Auto

Harold Temple, 23, of 449 Erie-av, was held to the Grand Jury under $100 bond by Municipal Judge William R. Martin this morning when he pleaded guilty to selling an automobile on which a mortgage was held by Zebadiah Stout. The affidavit was filed by Stout.

He charged that a Maxwell touring car valued at $85 had been given as security by Temple on a note for $50 and that Temple sold the car while the mortgage was in force.

While admitting selling the car, Temple says he made repeated efforts to have Stout take the machine and when he finally sold the car he received $2 for it.

DR. OBORN SPEAKS

M. E. Copgragation at Caledonia Holds Sermon on Missions

Caledonia, Feb. 26.—Sunday was Field day in Mansfield District of the Methodist Church. Dr. J. W. Oborn of Warsaw, Ind., spoke in the interest of "World Service" and "Home Missions" at the morning service at Memorial M. E. Church. He pointed out that "our towns are not safe until the slums of the cities are made clean."

A large and appreciative audience was present. Epworth League services at 6:30 were in charge of Miss Alma Lyon, who discussed the subject, "How We Got Our Gospels." No night church service was held on account of the revival services which started at Canaan with Rev. Fancher, pastor of both churches, in charge. These meetings will continue each evening throughout the week, beginning at 7:30 o'clock.

On next Sunday night Miss Fanny Perkins who has spent 32 years as a missionary in Burma, will deliver the thanksgiving address at the local M. E. Church.

Audiences and interest Sunday at the Church of Christ were good. Increased attendance was reported at Sunday School and at the Christian Endeavor meeting at 6:30 p. m. Rev. Stevens used as the subject for the morning service, "Authority in Religion" and for the evening theme, "A Change of Heart." This being the only service at the hour of evening worship. A number from the other churches joined in the service.

The Loyal Women's Sunday School class will meet at the home of Mrs. Clyde Hart on Wednesday night for the regular monthly meeting.

The Interdenominational Mission which started recently in rooms in the C. G. Underwood building under the leadership of D. F. Landes is holding regular meetings every Sunday at 1:30 p. m. and Wednesday nights at 7:30 o'clock. That a series of special meetings will be held in the near future, with out of town speakers, was announced at Sunday's meeting.

ON THE Streets of Marion WITH THE STAR STAFF

MARION residents who clasp the hands of friends as a token of fellowship are committing a grave error if not actually contributing to the downfall of the human race, according to the advice of Dr. P. C. Robbins, chief of the State Bureau of Contagious Diseases.

Possibly this assertion is far fetched, but draw your own conclusion.

If you must sneeze, Dr. Robbins warns, sneeze into your left hand, not your right. He has the same thing to say in regard to coughs, yawns and sneezed oaths or anything else that calls for the hand-over-mouth gesture recommended by etiquette books.

"We shake hands with our right hand," Dr. Robbins points out, "and the surface of the hand forms a favorable resting place for germs."

Dr. Robbins does not approve of hand shaking at all, especially at this time of the year when, he says, there are more contagious diseases being spread about than at any other season.

"The honest, hearty handshake may, and frequently does transfer as many pathological bacteria as though a deadly enemy were concealing his mortal designs in such a greeting," he says.

"Just watch anyone for a day and see where he puts his hands, what he allows to touch and soil them, and how democratic he is in passing his germs along to his friends and family."

"The Chinese have a very commendable custom of shaking their own hands when meeting friends. We make a lot of fun of China, but we could profit by her wisdom if we would. At least, a man's own germs will stay at home if he shakes his own hand and not the other fellow's."

It is generally believed by farmers that if a cow is fed on a liberal diet of carrots, it will give milk producing butter of a deep golden color. Recently the bride of a young farmer, whose knowledge of the farm was limited to the fact that it was a large amount of land and that it was usually out in the country, thought she would surprise her husband by making several pounds of nice fellow butter, and since she had been told that carrots would make just such butter, the rest would be easy.

Placing a quantity of cream in a small churn the bride after much labor and joyful anticipation, produced a lump of butter that was of the customary light cream color. But did this worry the bride? Not at all. She knew that carrots would make the butter a nice golden yellow, so going to the basement she obtained several large carrots and after careful washing, proceeded to grate them in the butter.

Her husband, it is said, has been placed under the dire threat of being deserted if he as much as mentions carrots in connection with butter.

THE boys were whooping it up last night. That is, the boys did do leather mitts. It was the first exhibition of the unmanly art in more than a few weeks. And, the boys—well, we're not sure just what caused some of the boys to wear gloves for they acted for all the world as if they thought they were here to do a stranger's laundry act. And, when they weren't wrestling, they were doing a track meet and setting up exercises. They needed a load of dynamite behind them to get them into action. And, then, slough, slough, bang, bang, and more of the run-around stuff.

A lot of the boys who take in the occasional shows believe that the local boxing commission ought to take more than just a mere glance at the records of the leather-pushers that are brought in. In four of last night's bouts the fighters apparently never heard that a man has anything else than a chin. They all aimed for the chin and telegraphed their prospective and usually-missed blows 80 seconds ahead of time. Body blows were not for them. They wanted the knockout drops and on the chin, the hurry up route to fame and fortune, meaning more than $10 or $15 a bout.

And, it is not amiss to say that the commission when putting its O.K. on a fight card, if it does, ought also to look into the referee situation. Not everybody can referee. And it isn't merely getting out of the fighters' way and yelling "Break!"

A small boxing show is a humorous panorama, from the "Kill 'em!" yells to the "Dirty!" whines. And, funniest of all, if you can stomach it, is the water bucket. The water bucket is the most important part of the evening's equipment for it contains, besides the water, the sponge and the drinking bottle. The "seconds" sponge off the

NO DISORDERS OVER WEEK-END AT MINES
Columbus, Feb. 28—Adjt. Gen. Frank Henderson stated that while a number of communistic agitators addressed crowds of striking miners and sympathizers in the eastern Ohio coal fields over the week-end, there was no disorder.

Ohio National Guard officials, acting as "observers" for Gov. Vic Donahey, reported to Henderson that the agitators, while delivering their talks, did not advocate disregard of law nor violation of federal injunctions which prohibit molestation of non-union employees and interference with operation of various Ohio coal mines.

OHIO INSURANCE LAW HELD VALID BY COURT
Washington, Feb. 28—The Supreme Court today inferentially held valid the Ohio insurance law in so far as it gives the superintendent of insurance the right to control the compensation paid insurance agents.

Appeal was filed by the National Mutual Insurance and the Celina Mutual Casualty Companies after the Ohio Supreme Court had upheld the action of the State Insurance Department respecting these companies. The high court dismissed the appeal for lack of a substantial federal question.

The superintendent of insurance ordered both companies to modify general agency contracts with E. J. Brookhart, alleging that excessive fees were being paid. Brookhart was secretary of both companies.

RULES ON ELECTION OF COUNTY SUREVOR

Columbus, Feb. 28—Where a vacancy in the office of county surveyor occurs more than 30 days prior to the Ohio elections next November, a successor must be elected at the November election to fill the unexpired term which ends on the first Monday of next January. This ruling was given today by Attorney General Edward G. Turner to Prosecuting Attorney H. E. Collier, Ashland.

Turner held that, in such a case, a county surveyor should be chosen at the November election for a full term.

Maxwell and Delaney Battle To Draw On Eagles' Card

OPENING FIGHT SHOW IS ATTENDED BY 400 FANS AT LODGE GYM

Marion Boxers Win and Lose with Lima and Mansfield Maulers

BY KAREL R. McELROY
Sports Editor

A three in one show with only one admission charged featured the first 1933 fight card of the Marion Eagles Lodge last night when eight alleged boxers presented 22 rounds of wrestling, running and a little fighting.

However, at times fans received plenty of action with all bouts, with the exception of the first preliminary which was awarded the winner on a technical knockout in the final round, going the limit.

All unreserved seats were taken by approximately 400 fans while the higher priced reserved ringsides were pretty well filled with a few vacant spaces noticeable. From a financial standpoint, if none other, the show was a success.

Chuck Maxwell of Lima and Paul Delaney of Mansfield fought to an eight round draw in the main go event. The decision was handed down by two judges, Norrie Chisminger and Bert Shelton, although the writer believes that the Lima boy had a slight edge.

Maxwell carried the fight most of the way with Delaney going into clinches at every opportunity. The writer called five rounds even with Maxwell taking the third and sixth. In the first round Delaney carried the fighting for the first time giving Chuck some bad punishment. Maxwell went down once for the count of nine. In the following round, however, Maxwell came back strong, smacking Delaney right and left. At the end of the round the Mansfield mauler was bleeding from a cut on the head.

Two Marion boys split even in their bouts. Ike Jones lost to Ed Hammel, Lima, in the semi-final event of six rounds. Jones failed to carry a single round of the bout while three were even.

Jones was down four times in the bout and pulled the Gene Tunney act of waiting for the count. As a fighter he proved to be a good map being too willing to drape his frame in the floor for no apparent reason at all. Hammel was a little bit too good for the Marion boy.

In the second preliminary, one of the best bouts on the program, Ray Snyder of this city was awarded the decision over Joe Black of Mansfield. Snyder carried every round by a wide margin completely out boxing and out hitting his opponent. The first two rounds were taken easily by the Marion youth and in the third Black opened strong. A whirlwind finish by Snyder turned the tide and gave the local boy the round.

Young Vernon of Lima forgot his right hand existed in his bout with Young Dundee of Mansfield. He lost it on a technical knockout in the last round after receiving a terrible beating.

YOU'VE GOT TO GIVE 'EM CREDIT!

Yes, sir! You've got to hand it to these boys—Dan Harley (left), and Jack Calvey, who ran away from school at their home town of Lombard, Ill., and beat their way half across the continent to Avalon, Catalina Island, where they presented themselves for a tryout at the Chicago Cubs' training quarters. Manager McCarthy looked them over and decided they weren't so bad, after all. The boys are being carried on the "sandwich list," and Cub players declare some day they may make the big league grade.

TO OFFER FIGHT

Leonard's Threatened Comeback Taken Seriously By Tex Rickard

New York, Feb. 28—Benny Leonard's threatened "comeback" has been taken seriously by Tex Rickard, who will offer the former lightweight champion a match here with Ace Hudkins. Leonard is aiming at the welterweight title but before he approaches a match with Joe Dundee the boxing commission will insist on a qualifying bout. The Leonard-Hudkins bout probably will not be held until May. Leonard made several weeks of training to get back into fighting form after an absence of three years from the ring.

SCOTT MATCHED

New York, Feb. 28—Phil Scott, English heavyweight champion, has been matched for a bout with Pierre Charles, Belgian champion, here on March 10.

A four way bout with Francis and Bill Walters of Marion taking half the time and Chuck and Bill Mayfield of Lima, the other half. These midsize gave a great exhibition of slugging.

Roy Abel was the third man in the ring after receiving a terrible beating.

Spring Days Ahead

This week will either see March coming in like a lamb or roaring like a lion, according to an old proverb. The great kick in that spring is not so far away and King Winter has lost his punch and will reign as monarch of the seasons for but a few weeks more.

The ice will soon leave the lakes and migratory birds will begin northward flights, protected, of course, by federal law.

Crappie (shad) fishing will be the first on the menu for spring anglers who prefer lakes and a legion of sucker adherents will fare forth to streams of the state. Take your choice. Do not forget, however, that there will also be some spring bass fishing before long. The lakes in this vicinity, with exceptions, are not so fertile for early bass anglers but the rivers leading from Ohio into Lake Erie provide some mighty fine fishing, when things are right.

What is there in fishing that pulls over a half-million anglers to waters of Ohio? Why does the thrill follow an angler from boyhood to old age? Those questions are very hard to answer, but it seems that the uncertainty of a catch, the possibilities of hooking a big "un and the surroundings while on the job are fundamentals, if not the essence of the whole affair.

We, of Ohio, despite the fact that our fishing has decreased considerably in the past few years, are still very fortunate. Streams on the southern watershed contain prodigious fish. Catfish weighing up to 50 pounds and muskies of nearly that size are taken every year. An angler fishing these waters may hook one of these big fish at any time. It certainly adds spice to the game. Ohio is blessed with a good variety of pan and game fish and a day of luck, fishing in waters of the Buckeye state, means a real meal.

Bass are the most popular fish in the state and in close sequence come bluegill, perch and others of that type. In certain areas the pike, perch, muskie, white bass and others are popular, not to forget the catfish family. Suckers and even the generally despised carp come in for their share of praise from some.

For convenience, more than any other reason, fish are classed as game fish, food fish and forage fish. Others draw a distinction as game fish or pan fish, and then term some members of the fishy tribe coarse.

Fish are a great deal like human

Training Camp Briefs

CATALINA ISLAND, Cal., Feb. 28—With all of his Cubs finally in camp, Manager Joe McCarthy has divided them into two teams for the purpose of practice games and to alternate at fielding and batting practice. Kiki Cuyler appears third in the line-up.

CHICAGO, Feb. 28—The White Sox, under the direction of Manager Ray Schalk, were to leave for their Shreveport training camp today. Chalmers Cissell, the new $123,000 addition to the Sox family, is on deck and ready to start south with the team.

HOT SPRINGS, Ark., Feb. 28—Members of the New York Giants who have been "boiling out" here will leave today for the regular training camp at Augusta, Ga. In the first practice game of the season, two scrub teams battled to a 2 to 2 tie yesterday.

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., Feb. 28—The New York Yankees will hold their first regular workout today, if Jupiter Pluvius is agreeable. Rain practically ruined the opening day festivities yesterday.

CLEARWATER, Fla., Feb. 28—Babe Herman, slugging first baseman, is the first member of the Brooklyn Robins to hit a training camp home run. The Babe is determined to prevent Del Eisonette, a rookie, from grabbing his job.

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 28—Manager Roger Peckinpaugh of the Cleveland Americans, today was all smiles, following the receipt of information that Joe Sewell, unsigned Indian shortstop, would arrive here March 3. Joe was the only remaining holdout.

FAVOR LLOYD HAHN TO WIN RACE OVER CONGER AND DOKTOR

May Be Elbowing Contest; Distance Too Long for Peltzer's Liking

BY DAVIS J. WALSH

New York, Feb. 28—The army that travels on its stomach and the soldier who sleeps on his watch may have a new opponent in the act by tomorrow night in the race which will be on his elbow. The elbow, you know, used to be something at which one kept old family recipes and beautiful women, although I don't mind saying that I almost never use my elbow on the latter.

That, however, has little to do with the fact that Lloyd Hahn will race the Herr Doktor Peltzer and Ray Conger tomorrow night, except that both of the latter somehow were born with a complete set of elbows. This not only lends them an air of distinction but gives the defeated runner a chance to explain in full.

The current indoor season has been rife, as we say at the fruit stand, with stories of this kind and, in a spirit of helpfulness, I suggest that when they run this mile of the century tomorrow night they have Elbows McFadden, the old lightweight, as one of the judges at the finish.

In this way, it is hoped to eliminate the "long count" that followed in the wake of these contests.

Ray Judge versus the Herr Doktor's elbow.
Lloyd Hahn versus Ray Conger.
It may or may not be significant that the runner who won both of these races also was generously conceded a victory in the elbow contest by the defeated runner; so that it might appear that Hahn is taking on at least one elbow too many tomorrow night. But the experts, after due deliberation, have decided that an elbow operates forward only and that Hahn will be in the rear like a front door step.

They have him all set to exact due revenge on his boy friend, Conger, who made him walk home in that famous 1,000 yard race at Kansas City. They also think he knows too much about indoor running for the Doktor. The latter, in making his world's 1,500 metre record against Nugal and Wide, was running at the rate of about 410 feet the mile, but this distance now only is a little long for him but the average indoor track also is a little short for his stride.

Peltzer is "ready," according to the word that comes from his training quarters at Georgetown University, but conditions and distances are too much to Hahn's liking to give the Doktor better than an outside chance.

As for Conger, the general idea is that he hasn't been running long enough and is too young to match strides with this pair at the mile. It is thought, in other words, that the man who best both Hahn and Peltzer at 1,000 yards is due to run third behind them in this race. He won't be able to hold Hahn's pace through the third quarter, they say.

BOSTON COMMISSION WILL ACT ON MELLO FOUL BLOW IN BOUT

Ace Hudkins Awarded Fight in Fourth Round After Illegal Hit

Boston, Feb. 28—Reports current in boxing circles today that Al Mello would be suspended for six months for fouling Ace Hudkins in the fourth round of their bout before a capacity crowd last night were met by state commissioners that nothing could be decided until the commission meets again—probably in two or three days.

Mello, who was whipped by the Nebraska Wildcat last June in New York, appeared to be starting a "come back" last evening. The Lowell boxer was battling in a savage, aggressive manner and appeared to have the advantage in the first three rounds.

Suddenly in the fourth Mello began driving with swift rights and lefts at Hudkins. Then came the foul blow that booted the Wildcat. He landed in the ring in a sitting position. Mello, starting for his corner, whirled in mid-air as he heard the words of "foul" from the referee.

"No, no, it was fair," shouted Mello. The crowd of 12,000 fans, many of them followers of Mello, roared for the Lowell boy as he left the ring.

OSGOOD NOW LEADS LEAGUE AFTER FRAY IS WON BY HUBERS

C. D. & M. Keeps Step by Defeating American Malleable Cagers, 16 to 12

Marion Business College basketball team, after proving the sensation of the Marion Industrial League earlier in the season, are generally considered out of the running today for the championship after being defeated last night by Huber, 28 to 25.

Playing an uphill game in which they managed to stay within a few points of their opponents, the Collegians were not equal to the task of winning the contest.

In losing the fray the Business College five dropped to third place giving up the initial position to Osgood. C. D. & M. is in second place.

Huber held a two-point lead at the close of the half with the College boys scoring 14 points. Geisler was the main scoring cog in the Huber machine casing eight buckets for 16 points. Atkinson scored 12 points for the losers.

The Business College, unusual as it may seem, lost the game on fouls. Both teams, the official score showed, caged 12 field goals while the winners made two free throws.

C. D. & M. cagers were given a hard battle by the American Malleable quintet. The score was 16 to 14. The electric held a small lead throughout the contest.

The only one-sided game of the evening was the initial contest in which Osgood defeated the General Excavators, 34 to 13. The league leaders played a great game behind the scoring of Yazel and Conwell, who scored 14 and nine points respectively.

Unless the unexpected happens Osgood is bound to finish as champions of the league or do no worse than tie with the C. D. & M. The league leaders have but one more game to play. Next week they will meet the Silk Mill team. It may happen that the Silk Mill team will upset things again.

In case Osgood wins next week's game the C. D. & M. cagers will be compelled to win their last two games to tie the league leaders. Next week they will face Hubers and the week following the Business College. Just looking at this schedule things do not seem so bright for the electric.

STEVENS IS COACH

Will Direct Football at Yale For Three Years

New Haven, Conn., Feb. 28.—Marvin A. (Mal) Stevens, the "student coach," will direct Yale's football destinies for the next three years. Stevens who is still in his early twenties, is enrolled as a student in the Yale medical school. He was a star halfback of Bill Maljory's championship 1923 eleven.

Announcement of Stevens' appointment to the post made vacant by the resignation of T. A. D. Jones was made by the board of control of the Yale University Athletic Association. While his selection had been forecast, the appointment for three years instead of one caused some surprise.

This is the first of a series of articles by Frank G. Menke which reveal the inner workings of the bookmaking game and which are intended to show players why it is impossible for constant gamblers to beat the race. The second article of this series will appear in this column tomorrow. (Editor's Note.)

WOULD you like to further into a business where no cash capital is needed, where there's NO CHANCE of loss, and where your profits run the scale of from $10,000 to $1,000,000 per annum?

If the answer is in the affirmative, then the advice is this:

Operate a racing handbook away from the race track.

Since Adam and little Eva first rented parking space in the Garden of Eden, no profession ever has been conceived which is so productive of a golden harvest as is "handbook" making.

The weird and amazing rules which "handbook" men concocted and then foisted upon a gullible wagering public, are responsible for it all.

Here are the rules:

(1) We will not pay odds of more than 15 to 1 on any winning horse, no matter how high are the payoff odds at the track.

(2) We will not pay on the "field" at pari-mutual tracks unless you picked the exact "field" horse that won.

(3) We will not pay odds higher than 40 to 1 under any circumstances, on winning "Parlays."

Those innocent appearing regulations are the foundation of the tremendously successful business of "handbook" making; rules that make it possible day after day, for the "handbook" men to juggle and pyramid the player's money until, each year's end, finds them winner of HUNDREDS OF MILLIONS of dollars which, in the definite sense, belongs to the players.

No Risk at All

A crafty "handbook" man can dodge all risk of loss via the simple process of acting as "middleman"; taking the

PLAN SCHEDULE

Ties To Be Played Off In Volley Ball League

A tournament among Clark, Murphy and Cunningham teams of the Business Men's Volley Ball league to decide winners of the second, third and fourth places of the loop will feature the closing of the loop schedule tomorrow night.

Clark will play Murphy with Cunningham playing the winner. Vaughan will play White while Tobin meets Sage in other games scheduled.

$200 profit—and kept the difference of $1,300 for himself. Simple, isn't it? Of course, long shots like that do not win every day. But enough of them win during a racing year to make a wealthy man out of any "handbook" agent.

If that player had been able to get to the track, he would have been paid $2,000 winnings on a $40 bet, for at the track, naturally, a player gets the benefit of the full payoff on tickets he holds. But the man, like 4,025,000 others, couldn't get to the track. He had to make his play with the "handbook" man and had to agree to abide by 15 to 1 maximum payoff rule.

Merely Accepts Bets

What's the procedure in this business where the risk is nil and the profits enormous? Well, reduced to concreteness, the "handbook" man need merely accept the bets from his players, make those bets at the tracks, through an agent, and let his trifling of rules lift him quickly from poverty to affluence.

Last Autumn a player bet $40 with his "handbook" man on a horse named La Diva, running at one of the Maryland tracks. The "handbook" man promptly wired his agent at the track who followed orders and bet the $40 on La Diva.

If La Diva had lost, then the player, of course, would have been the only loser, for the only money lost was his $40. Had La Diva won and paid only 15 to 1—or less—then all of the profits would have gone to the player—and the "handbook" man would have broken even.

The hope of the "handbook" man, therefore, is that La Diva would win and pay MORE than 15 to 1. Then he was certain to profit on a venture that was riskless for himself.

La Diva did win, and paid odds of about 50 to 1, meaning that the "handbook" man had won $2,000 on the player's $40 bet. He paid off the player on the basis of 15 to 1—a total of

BIG TEN BASKETBALL RACE RUNS TRUE TO FORM; STATE LOSES

Wisconsin Out of First Place After Being Idle; Hoosier Teams Lead

Chicago, Feb. 28.—With the Big Ten basketball race running true to form, Indiana and Purdue were still in first place today following respective victories last night over Iowa and Minnesota.

Wisconsin had showed the upstart to catch the two Hoosier teams, but was temporarily forced into second place through illness.

Indiana kept in the running by beating the Hawkeyes, 45 to 35, on the latter's home floor. Meanwhile, over at Lafayette, Purdue was swamping the ill-fated Gophers, 45 to 27.

In a third conference game, played last night at Columbus, the Wolverines trounced the Buckeyes, 45 to 35.

Sure Way to Get Rid of Dandruff

There is one sure way that never fails to remove dandruff completely and that is to dissolve it. Then you destroy it entirely.

To do this, just get about four ounces of plain, ordinary liquid arvon; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning, most, if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and two or three more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have.

You will find, too, that all itching and digging of the scalp will stop instantly, and your hair will be lustrous, glossy, silky and soft, and look and feel a hundred times better.

You can get liquid arvon at any drug store and four ounces is all you will need. This simple remedy has never been known to fail.

KLEINMAIER'S

Marion's Greatest Store for Men & Boys

Black Gold Made Good Hoots' Deathbed Wish

Pawhuska, Okla., Feb. 28.—"Black Gold," one of the greatest race horses the world ever has known—a fresh, who absorbed human love with his oats, and returned his owners a stream of dollars as great as comes from any of the oil wells gushing the liquid for which he was named—was the product of a peculiar wish, and prophecy made by an old-time jockey on his deathbed.

At Hoots, in his early days a jockey, married an Osage Indian woman; a blanket Indian of three quarters blood. But they really loved each other, according to testimony of numerous acquaintances in this city, for they were married in the days before the Osages became the richest tribe in the world.

Owning One Horse

Hoots owned one horse, a mare named "Useet," which had earned for its master a number of tidy purses on Texas tracks. He was a bluff type of fellow, but was known in the sport world as an honest lover of horses. In 1910, Hoots took his prize-winner, the Juana, and entered her in a claiming race. Useet was an easy winner over the field, but was taken from Hoots, as is customary in "claiming" races; and sold to two Mexicans. Hoots afterwards swore that he did not realize the race was of the "claiming" variety. Heartbroken, the jockey pleaded with the Mexicans for the return of the horse, but they refused to hear him. In the dead of night following the race, and with two big "six-guns" strapped to his hips, Hoots raided the barn where Useet was stalled; took her across the International bridge into the United States, and by easy stages brought her to the race track near Pawhuska. Not for several months did he realize his predicament, for when he tried to run the mare again, he learned that he was barred from every track in America, Mexico and Canada.

Dies In Despair

Hoots died soon after, and many cling to the theory that his passing resulted from a broken heart. As he lay on his death bed, Hoots called to his Indian wife, and in parting, said: "If you love me, do just as I say. Take Useet to Kentucky. Breed her to Black Toney. Train the offspring, and win the Kentucky derby! You can do it!"

The woman promised, and well and faithfully has she kept her word. Hoots left little money, but his widow managed to raise enough to carry out her promise.

The offspring of Useet and Black Toney was a scrubby little black colt, hunted at by experts, and loved by no one save his owner. Then came Hauley Webb, a Cherokee Indian trainer. He had a vision and stayed with the colt through thick and thin. The little horse was named "Black Gold," for it was at the time of the oil boom days, and on the land given Mrs. Hoots by the Indian allotment, sufficient oil was found to insure the thorough training for the colt.

Black Gold was put into training as soon as his baby legs would hold him, and in 1923 was taken to New Orleans for the winter meeting.

Owners frowned on the scrubby racer from "the sticks," but Webb continued to pet and care for his black baby. Finally, as a two-year-old Black Gold won nine races and placed in several others to win a total of $19,915, a record for two-year-olds.

Webb took the horse to the Osage Hills, and in the Spring of 1924, returned to the south with him, where he won the Louisiana Derby, which paid Mrs. Hoots $17,500. In this race, the colt so far outdistanced his competitors that he had only to gallop the last four furlongs.

His Big Year

The following year came the "big break" and the horse won more than $100,000 for his owner who followed him always, pitching her Indian tepee on the race course and watching over him as anxiously as his trainer and jockey. J. A. Mooney, the jockey and Webb always slept in a stall beside Black Gold.

After eighteen months on a farm, which it is claimed made his bones soft, he was taken to New Orleans for his last great race.

He was limping when he went to the post, but in the running was well up, being but three lengths back of the leader when his left foreleg snapped at the 30th of the mile. He stumbled but never fell. Into the stretch—other horses leading—Black Gold's wonder, full will power and fearless spirit carried him on, until he fell at the fire, within only a few feet of the finish. The jockey slid off gently, and willing hands lifted the poor suffering warrior off the track. A veterinary approached to put Black Gold out of his misery.

At Hoots had said: "get revenge for the dog that tricked me." And Black Gold had made good!

Shrubs, flowers and an American flag mark the horse's grave, in the oval where he ran his last race. Soon a marble shaft will be erected there.

Many Boxers Appear On Chicago Program

Chicago, Feb. 28.—Twenty-four boxers displayed their wares at promoter Jim Mullen's unique fight carnival staged at the Coliseum last night. There were 12 bouts of four rounds each.

Two upsets featured the letter-pushing metley. The first came when Jack McCarthy, veteran Chicago welterweight, outgassed and outfought the younger and speedier My Sullivan of St. Paul. The other surprise was the beating Eddy Buffalo of New York, gave Joey Medill, the classy Chicago lightweight.

Otto Von Porst, the big Norwegian, scored the only knockout of the evening when he clipped Gordon Smith, the Canadian heavyweight on the chin with a stiff left uppercut, in the first round.

Industrial Stocks Show Tendency to Regain Losses

GASOLINE IS UP TWO CENTS

Standard Oil Advances Price in Boston and Other Eastern Points

Markets at a Glance
Railroad stocks, inactive; industrial stocks, irregular; domestic bonds, fairly steady; foreign bonds, firm; call money 4 1/2 per cent; grain, steady; copper, steady; oil, firm; cotton, irregular; rubber, steady; sugar, steady; pig iron, steady; foreign exchange, irregular.

New York, Feb. 22.—Industrial stocks moved upward moderately as the result of leisurely short covering in a dull and a sluggish market today. The usual month-end stiffening of the money market, with call loans marked up fractionally, was without special effect on either the bond market or the stock market, and the volume of trading up to the noon hour was less than 750,000 shares.

Oil stocks spurred on announcement that the Standard Oil units had advanced the price of gasoline 2 cents a gallon in Boston and other New England centers, following yesterday's upward revisions in the western points. Whether or not this signals the "turn for the better" in the much-abused oil industry remains to be seen, but it is significant that the higher prices should be announced on the eve of the most important "gas" consuming season, stretching from March to the end of November.

Business reports to President Coolidge were reassuring. The Federal Reserve Board reported some improvement in the moving of freight and in retail merchandising. From the stock market standpoint there was very little to stimulate activities on either side of the market, and the stocks which were left to themselves generally drifted downward. Pools in the specialties were induced to "jack up" prices at the expense of the shorts, and there was little deviation from the professional domination of the market which has been in evidence since the middle of last week. Possible change in railroad line-ups were hinted at, but nothing authentic is yet available.

Cotton

New York, Feb. 22.—The local cotton market opened steady today. Initial quotations ranged from 1 point lower to 5 points higher than their previous finals. March sold at 18.46, down 01; May 18.68, up 01; July 18.65, up 05; October 18.31, up 01; December 18.22, up 02 and January 18.17, up 01.

REINDICT EDITOR

Wall Street Iconoclast's Head Charged With Fraud Through Mail

New York, Feb. 28.—George Graham Rice, editor of the "Wall Street Iconoclast," and five co-defendants were reindicted yesterday by the Federal Grand Jury on charges of conspiring to use the mails to defraud, following Federal Judge John Clarke's action in quashing an earlier similar indictment. In the new bill, obtained by Assistant Federal District Attorney David Peck, Rice was indicted under his true name, Jacob Simon Horvitz. With him were named Walter Harvey Weed of New York City, Walter K. Yorkston of Boise City, Idaho, Frank Silva, brother-in-law of Rice, the Idaho Copper Corporation and the "Wall Street Iconoclast." Rice and the co-defendants are accused by the government of conspiring to use the mails to sell mining stock which the government says was worthless.

ICE ON LEVIATHAN

liner Is Docked After Extremely Rough Voyage

New York, Feb. 28.—Frozen brine from mountainous seas that buffeted the giant liner Leviathan covered the tips of her smoke stacks when she was docked yesterday. She encountered particularly severe weather last Thursday night on the voyage from Southampton and Cherbourg. No passengers were injured and the ship was undamaged, although Chief Officer William B. Oakley suffered a dislocated shoulder when he was thrown from a staircase by the rolling of the vessel.

Travelers in Germany who are willing to buy a first class ticket for each member of their party and twelve additional tickets can have their own parlor car attached to any through train. As first class travel is only four cents a mile, the privilege is often used.
